THEME 1

Take The Plunge

Kicking Off A New Year

Confusion, excitement and wishing they were still home in bed were some of the feelings expressed by students on their first day of school.

Most of the sophomores came to school with a look of confusion and being scared written all over their faces. They looked down that never-ending hall thinking that they would never make it through the day. When asked about their first day of school, Aaron Fender stated that he was "totally confused", and Angie Corral remembered that it wasn't any different. Though those first days were rough, the sophomores made it and had an exciting year at Granger.

Juniors felt that they were finally superior to the sophomores. But, others felt that things were no different. John Wendel stated that, "It was no big deal. There was nothing to look forward to, it was just the same."

The seniors had mixed feelings about their last school year. Jacques Regan's only comment about her last year of school was "DON'T ASK!" Most of the seniors decided to take it easy and "kick back" the whole year, but others took AP and other difficult classes. Some seniors were scared to graduate and enter the real world. Others were glad that their hard work had paid off and they were finally graduating.

Although the year at Granger may have been rough at times, the experiences and good times each person had made the "86-87" school year worthwhile.

Sophomore Chad Kehl tries to open the door while juniors and seniors hold the door closed and watch. As sophomores entered the unknown world of High School, they sometimes had a hard time adjusting.

Pam Loertscher-"I'd rather be a Senior than anything else."

Mark Dunn-"Good experience if you get beat-up then you will know how to do it when you're a senior."

Mindy Larsen-"You are in the middle of soph. and senior so you get to choose between soph., junior, and senior guys."

Seniors lay back and show their coolness in College Prep. Student in College Prep

How many Juniors can fit in one small car? Many Juniors with new drivers licenses used them more and more when they bought their first car.

Make A Big Splash

Let's Get Involved

Some ran, some performed, and others cheered us on. We all participated in different activities throughout the year, but the main objective was that we got involved. Involvement was the heart of our school, the thing that made events really matter. The more involved we were the happier we were (but also the more sleep we missed). We felt a part of things and we made more friends, plus we had experiences to use our talents in.

Being in Spirit Club was one of the ways that Adrian Vigil got involved. It gave her a chance to show her school spirit and gain many friends. Involvement to her was "cheering on the teams and being there when needed".

Craig Jensen-

"Involvement is attending athletic events and not being in the hall during class."

Julie Collard spent her time at the pool. Swimming was a major part of her life. She spent an average of four hours a day in the pool and to her, involvement was "time consuming but fun".

David Trujillo participated in wrestling and Madrigals. To him involvement was "being busy".

That, he most definitely was. Trying to get to the early morning and after school practices for both organizations was virtually impossible, but somehow he seemed to juggle his schedule.

Involvement was what we will remember in years to come. All the long hard hours spent learning the plays or memorizing the songs will not be the things we remember. It will be the satisfaction we felt, and the friendships we gained, plus all the fun we shared.

Keri Reiter, Brandi Bolton, and Wendy Zundell leap through the air displaying their skill in dance class. The dance studio was a new addition to the school.

Janet Durfey, Greg Bennion, and Angie Adams greet crowds at the Homecoming parade. Madrigals performed in concerts, church meetings and on other special occasions.

Fred Lutmer leads the band with his drum beat. The band was able to display their talents at a Homecoming parade for Rick's College.

Rodger Olsen, and Lance Staker fill their plates at a VICA club party. VICA members learned many drafting skills and enjoyed the socials.

Part-time Student

At last! Another weekend is here and I survived another long week of school! But what now? The homework can wait till Sunday night. What will I do with those precious moments of free time? For over half of Granger's students the work continued in the form of a part time job. Busy junior, Wendy Elkins said, "First comes school work, then job work, then SLEEP!" But for those who did get a moment to do something besides that awful four letter word, "work", they faced the tough decision of deciding what to do.

On nights like this many students could be found at the local fast food places, like McDonalds and Burger King. It was here that they filled their tummies with the delights of hamburgers and french fries. Then it was off to the local movie theater where a person paid anywhere from a dollar to five dollars for a movie ticket. For those of us on a tight budget it was the dollar show at the mall with the older released movies. But for those who wanted to see the newer releases they went to the Mann or Trolley Square and paid anywhere from $3.50 to $5.00.

Like some exercise? Then it was off to the local spa or gym for a game of racket ball, or a swim in the pool. Many students were familiar with places like Sports Haven and Deseret Gym. But how about some exercise in the form of dancing? It was then that places like The Ritz and The Bay came into picture. We had many things to do only not enough time. But we didn't worry... there was always the next weekend.

Travis Talbot displays the perfect shot. Involvement in sports was an important part of student lives.

Dee Peterson-"On weekends I like to goof off with my friends."

J.R. Burbidge-"My hobbies are wrestling, football, and team roping."

Parents and students show their spirit despite the rainy weather at the Granger vs. Olympus game. School spirit was always at its best at the football games.

Angie Butters and Sharon Chesnut smile for the camera as they show their excitement during a game. High school brought an opportunity to make great new friends and share experiences with them.

Student Life

All kinds of fashions blend together in the halls of Granger High. Each student had a favorite clothing style, but we all had the same Lancer pride.

Jennifer Finlayson and Natalie Chapman show their excitement in the glory of discovering an empty parking place. Finding parking places were a major take for students throughout the year.

Mike Phillips and Bryan Pearce make a fashion statement with their suspenders. Fashion ran deep in the halls of Granger.

Dress To Impress

Every morning, millions of people across America ask themselves the same question; "What am I going to wear today?" Parents could not understand why their kids spent so much time and money on what they wore to school. Cliques had a heavy influence on the styles. Still confused about what to wear? These were some of the basic guidelines of the "86-87" cliques.

Cowboys were wearing the Western shirt and Wranglers. Woven or stamped belts were garnished with every Cowboy's pride and joy, a silver belt buckle the size of a dinner plate. Pointed toe boots were out, but red or grey ropers were in. The finishing touch was a fine-strawed, Resistol hat.

The jocks, those athletic members, were rarely seen without their letterman's jackets or jerseys of their favorite sport.

New Wavers were wearing two classic colors that were the foundation of their entire wardrobe, basic black and white. Accessories were a must, the more bizarre the better. "Mr. Roger" sweaters were a popular item that fall. Black boots were the footwear for this group. From there almost anything went.

Punkers made a statement about themselves with their clothing.

Kendall Pasborg-"I dress in the style of clothes I like and feel comfortable in!"

Torn jeans and T-shirts teamed with black motorcycle boots, adorned with Anarchy signs and plenty of chains. Ear and nose rings were common. Hair styles ranging from mohawks to spikes were found in a various assortment of colors.

Rockers were never without their rock concert T-shirts. Levis and Levi jackets emblazed with group symbols were a must. Animal print spandex pants were a favorite. Will we ever forget the leather look pants? Tennis shoes for the men and spike-heeled boots for the ladies. Bold cross earrings dangled for the completed look.

"Fashion is taking a style and making it work for you. When you look good, you feel good." stated Tami Montoya.

Whether a person made a statement with their clothing or were trying to look good, keep in mind that one day your kids will look in this yearbook and laugh, "You actually wore that to school?"

Annette Loertcher shields her eyes as she watches the game. Annette along with many others supported Granger High's teams.

Students ban together to display their fashions. As fashions change so did the students.

Bryce Fair and friends take in a football game. Although our varsity football team only played two games on our home field, school support was tremendous.

Students express their uniqueness. Friendships were an important part of a fun school year.

Dance Club struts their stuff. The company put in many long hours and their work was greatly appreciated.

Student Relations

What did you say?

We seemed to pick up on our friends reactions. Just in the way they talked and acted we could tell if they were having a good day or not. Another thing we picked up was the way each of them dressed. Not in every case, but in most cases just by looking at the way someone dressed, a person could tell basically what group of friends they hung out with.

Examples of behavior traits being passed on from one friend to another are as follows: Amy Carter, a junior, said, "I dressed in black just because my friends did. Also I picked up the habit of compulsively lying — umm yeah that's it." Michelle Wanlass, a junior, remarked, "My friends and I closed one eye while telling a lie."

Lara Parker - "When I think of a friend, I think of someone I can rely on without having to worry."

Craig Blackham, a senior, commented, "I copied my friend's speech patterns and the way they talked."

Relationships between a boyfriend and a girlfriend were common. When there was a relationship, a boyfriend and girlfriend spent all their spare time with each other.

They did the same things. Something a little out of the ordinary was Wendy Bloomquist and Scott Christiansen's relationship. When Wendy was trying to be romantic with Scott, Scott jokingly "tried to set the mood by flaring his nostrills." Then "when Scott wanted to be romantic, Wendy in return flared her nostrills." That's something to set a romantic mood.

Moods, behaviors, and relationships were something we were all aware of everyday.

Shield Staff members laughed at the sight of Stacey Heaps and Chris Bailey. Their death defying feat was caused by the many late night deadlines.

Granger High's Administration Staff enjoys throwing candy at parade viewers. They showed great support in school activities.

Craig Blackham and his friends look through the stands for Krista Perry to wish her Happy Birthday. Dances, birthdays, apes, and balloons were a common thing at Granger.

David Evans attacks his school lunch with zeal. Much of the students time was spent in the lunchroom.

Make The Memories Last.

Upon breaking the waves of the new year, several of Granger High students got involved in various activities. We began the year off with a stomp at Granger High's tennis courts. School started and along came Hello week. Another stomp and a Hello assembly brought friends together after summer vacation.

Homecoming soon followed on the week of September 15-19, which included the involvement of the whole student body. Homecoming Queen nominees were nominated from various clubs and groups. Clubs began organizing plans for the Homecoming assembly, a victorious football game against Taylorsville, and a dance - which included the alumni adding to the fun.

Football season began with a roar of the crowds gathering to catch the action. All the sports attracted attention as was the attendance to all of the fun and exciting activities for all of Granger High to participate in.

Along the way, through the year, boy meets girl or girl meets boy at stomps and dances. Alumni reminisced at Homecoming. Everyone danced away the night at Junior Prom on February 29th, and

Syndee Kranwinkle-
"Activities make school fun and more exciting. If they didn't have activities I probably wouldn't come."

Senior Ball on April 24th, with their favorite one. While at Harvest Ball on November 14th, and at Sadie Hawkins on March 20th, laughter and good times were shared.

Musicals, plays, bands, choirs, dance concerts, and drill-team performances rang enthusiasm through the year, as participants and audiences got involved.

Special productions for assemblies and the active involvement of the classes at Spirit Week, Senior Week, Junior Week, and Sophomore Week helped relations develop. Memories were made through the various activities occurring through the year as everyone got involved.

Sophomore Greg Hunt stated, "I am so busy, and I love meeting new people and getting involved."

The year of 1986-87 at Granger High was far above the rest. The student body's involvement in activities helped make the memories last.

Football players Randy Croall and Darren Lopez show young Garrett Fraser how to be a winner. Randy was the starting cornerback and Darren was the starting tackle on the varsity team.

Homecoming Queen nominees Jodi Henline, Debbie Hammer, Kendall Pasborg, and Kim Devy show what makes them winners during the Homecoming parade. Debbie Hammer was later elected and reigned as Homecoming Queen during Homecoming week.

Troy Magill, Travis Talbot, Jason Mecham and Jerry Hiatt take a step back into the 50's. The PTSA sponsored the 50's stomp on October 24.

Here It Comes There It Goes . . .

Every year there are different fads. Fads of course are things followed for a time with exaggerated zeal. Fads come in fast and go out just about as quickly.

One of the new fads to float in was "Mary Poppin" boots, and in keeping with the name they were unique. Nannette Wilson said, "I bought a pair because they were on sale." But Cheri Palmer bought her pair because she said, "They make my feet look chic." The shoes included teh skinny high heel and they were three fourths length, and laced from botton to top. Some "Mary Poppins" boots without the heel were nicknamed "Genie shoes". Other fads that came along included things for the car such as warning signs that hung in the car window. These had sayings such as: "Children on Board", "Who Cares Who's on Board", "If Your Rich, I'm Single", "Teenage Driver", and "Teacher in Truck". Chris Fillmore, as well as others, said that they hated these warning signs. Another accessory for the car was the cardboard dash protector. They were illustrated with pictures of sunglasses, palm trees, rainbows, and many other colorful items.

Some fads came along because

Wendy Stanley - "I love the warning signs, and they are so funny."

of the movies. "Top Gun" had people wearing leather jackets to keep up with Tom Cruise, and as Jamie Crookston said about Tom Cruise, "Ooo Baby! Come to Utah anytime."

When people got thirsty they reached for Mandarin Orange Slice or Pineapple Crush, and of course they had to drink these drinks out of Big Swig Mugs, and Little Big Swig Mugs from the Holliday Mug Club collection.

A lot of fads included clothes that were hot such as suspenders, rugby shirts, pants rolled up at the cuff, the denim look, and of course, silver clothes and silver shoes. Accessories to these things were big bags, big belts, and big hoop earrings. Michelle Wanlass said, "I wear the denim look because it makes me feel like I am on the prarie."

Fads for the hair were interesting too. Girls were wearing California Clips that pull their hair up into sort of a ponytail. To round off these fads were flat tops which looked, "Oh so nice on guys!"

A few of our girls show off their Mary Poppins shoes. Mary Poppins shoes were one of many fads that hit Granger High.

"Animal In Car", and other sayings were very popular and were hung in car windows as warning signs. Several cars in Granger High's parking lot displayed these signs.

Students proudly display their unique dash protectors. Many protectors were found in most parking lots.

Students toast to a great year. Plastic mugs could be bought at almost all fast food restaurants and mini mart gas stations, and refilled cheaply.

The Year Of Involvement

We the 1986-87 studentbody officers appreciate everything that Granger High School has given us. It has been our pleasure serving Granger. We hope that the school year was as enjoyable to everyone, as it was to us. We would like to thank all the clubs, organizations, and individuals for all the help they have given us. Without their help and dedication the year would not have been as successful.

We would like to give a special thanks to the administration and Woody for all the help and encouragement they have given us. We hope that everyone will always strive to be proud of Granger High. Thanks for making the 1986-87 school year the best Granger

High School has ever had. Good luck in the future years.

Love,
the 1986-87 S.B.O.'s

Lynn Holden - "The S.B.O.'s came up with a lot of new ideas like the spirit can."

Look . . . We're dancing! Heidi Christensen and Torri Culley were caught doing a 50's twist. All the S.B.O.'s gave up their spare time to attend as many of Granger's activities as they could.

Lory Anderson, Heidi Christensen, and DeAnn Clark worked together to organize the 12 days of Christmas for the hall decorating.

As advisor of the SBO's, Sandra Woodward helped them coordinate ideas. Miss Woodward was affectionately nicknamed Woody, by all that knew her.

Secretary Torri Culley always kept smiling and kept the Lancer spirit going. Torri enjoyed answering the pay phone, an event that lead to many fun dates.

I really enjoyed serving as studentbody president. We, as a studentbody accomplished many things during the year.

The theme we chose for the "86 - 87" school year was, "The year of involvement". Our goal for this theme was to get every member of the studentbody involved in some way. I think that we succeeded in this.

I would like to thank the studentbody for their help throughout the year.

Remember the good times that we have had here at Granger and cherish these moments forever.

I would like to wish everyone the best of luck in the future.

—Scott Bagshaw

S.B.O. Officers participated in the Homecoming Parade down Lancer Way. As a whole they contributed many hours of work and made the 86 - 87 school year the best it could be.

From Year To Year

Changes Are Constant

When school was out and summer began, notices of photography appointments were sent out to all the students for next year's class pictures.

Summer haircuts, tans, and burns were displayed in the pictures, which were taken almost a year before the yearbook.

The typical sophomore wore a suit and tie, or his/her dressy best, while Junior attire was that of the classic T-shirt. Seniors strutted around in their tuxedos and feathered drapes, but all the students were ready to flash their pearly-whites and say cheese for the camera.

By the time the yearbook came out in the spring, everyone had grown and changed. There were different hairstyles, different clothes, and everyone said, "But that doesn't even look like me!" The pictures that were taken and posed for will be the ones to be remembered by the many friends made in high school, and to be looked back on in years to come.

Cindy Tuanoe shows excitement in going to her psychology class. Students hurried to their classes because of the dreaded "Lock-outs".

The "Tragic Irony of Mans Fate." Students listen as Doug Hansen explains a fundamental theme of English.

Sluffers find it humorous to be caught at Burger King. Students often occupied local restaurants with their friends.

Throughout the past year the Senior Class officers of 1986-1987 have accomplished many outstanding deeds for the senior class.

The Senior Class officers were able to get Symphony Hall for graduation. They also put on the Senior Ball dance and did a marvelous job with decorations and getting the music.

For honorable seniors and people who were in certain activities, the Senior Class officers put on a special Senior Banquet. They did a wonderful job on it, and it was a very enjoyable evening.

They also helped with homecoming, where they received first place on their float of B.C.

Many times throughout the year they had special get togethers (parties). "Once a month we had breakfast at the Village Inn," remarked Lara Parker. They also had a Christmas party and many other get togethers.

The senior class of 1986-87 thanks the officers for the upright job they did of making this the most successful year ever.

MOST SPIRITED

Craig Blackham could be seen in Granger's sporting events as Granger's favorite character, Sir Lancer. He has participated in Debate, as a sophomore, Concert Choir, Drama, and Madrigals.

Brandi Bolton has cheered on Granger all three years of high school as a sophomore, junior, and varsity cheerleader. Gymnastics team and Dance Club were among her many activities.

YEAR OF EXCITEMENT

Five junior class officers were elected at the end of the 1985-'86 school year. Rick Wilson served as president, Darren Cox as vice president, Susan Rappleye as secretary and Kim Jacobs and Lisa Whitlock served as A.L.O. Representatives.

The officers planned and followed through on Junior Week and Junior Prom. They were also in charge of the Junior Week assembly. Graduation was one of the many things they helped the Senior Officers put together.

The Homecoming Parade and the decorations for events showed how talented and creative these officers were. Gina Howard commented, "They were a creative bunch of people who did a good job representing the junior class." The officers helped the school out by doing the announcement shields and helping with the faculty birthdays. They also helped judge the shields for the Homecoming shield decoration contest.

Christmas was the time of year when the junior class officers were the busiest. They judged the doors that were decorated and, along with the other officers, they helped make Christmas a special time for everyone.

The junior class officers put a lot of time and energy into all they did. They worked hard, and performed their job well. They helped to make this year one of the best.

HIGH SPEED

"Mom, where are your keys?" We all got tired of asking this question and then receiving a million conditions on what we had to do to be allowed to use the car. Few were desperate enough to take their little brother to baseball practice in order to use the car for an hour.

Most of us dreamed of buying a hot, new car such as a Porsche, but not many of us were able to afford it. As Mark Faber puts it, "I wanted a Mustang, but I got a junker."

Not many of us were able to afford buying our own car, so we were left to driving the dreaded 'Family Car'. It wasn't all bad, as Carol Round said,

"I loved driving the family car. It's called the Bomber."

What kind of stunts did we pull in our cars? Michelle Leffler said, "I want to see how high I can go over the speed limit without getting caught." Carole McNeeley stated, "I drove up the ramp of Alpha Beta intending to race the grocery carts and run over the bag boys, but was stopped by a mean manager."

Driving was an important part of all our lives. Whether we drove our own cars, our parents cars, or bummed rides off of our friends, cars were a necessity in all our lives.

WHAT'S YOUR FIX?

There I was, walking down the hall, throat parched. What to do? Should I catch the wave? Join the new generation? Or be a Pepper? It seemed that there were hundreds of different possibilities of drinks to choose from, and that new ones came out every day. Some seemed to be drowning in a never-ending array of choices while others successfully fought their way through the cola wars and came out with a winner.

For some the choice was easy. Many people, like Mindy Johnson, favored Coke over all others. Lashanda Lewis, on the other hand, said she liked one of the new flavors that Slice comes in, orange, because, "it tastes goooood!" Sharon Chesnut with only a moment of thought, insisted that she liked Sprite best, "Just because." There were a few, like Tony Lowe, a cross-country track team member, that would, for the most part, drink only non-carbonated drinks, because, as he put it, "The carbonation slows you down."

No matter what thirst quencher each person chose, it enabled them to make it through the day.

MAKE IT WORK!

"I can't go to the game tonight, I have to work." This was a common phrase often heard around the halls of Granger High School. As students entered the age of adulthood, they also entered the phase of the working force. We all had different reasons why we may or may not have worked. Kris Gugulski stated that the main reason she works is because "I love Money!!" Some people work for the plain fact that they need the extra money for what they wanted to do. Curt Hoeppner stated that, "I work because I have a love for food, and money is needed to buy food." Chris Jensen works for the old fashion reason, "to pay bills." Our jobs differ as much as the reasons why we work. Many popular places where Granger High students worked were fast food places like McDonald's, Burger King, Kentucky Fried Chicken, and Artic Circle. Other popular places to work included Harmons, Alpha Beta, and stores in The Valley Fair Mall.

LOCKERS TURN A FEW HEADS

A locker. The one thing in every school that may be decorated to ones own personal taste.

The decorated lockers in most cases reflect the owner's personality or character. Seniors, in order to preserve their dominance, may use sophomores and juniors to decorate their lockers.

When a few students were asked why they decorated their lockers Jason Mecham commented, "It makes me feel in." Jodi Sartori stated, "Lockers are plain. If your locker is decorated you are more cheerful when you come to school."

Lockers may not be the most exciting thing about school but they sure make it more interesting. After graduation, if a student ever came back to Granger High School and saw a school locker, many fond memories would come to mind.

BIRTH OF A RUMOR

"Guess what?" "What?"
"No, I better not tell you."
"Okay." "Well, if you promise not to tell anyone . . ."

These were the secret words shared between friends. That friend told other friends, and so on, and so on. Each person in the chain added a little something of his or her own to the story. The information got around the school's social circuits, and soon the facts were very distorted.

That was how a rumor was born. An innocent story of who was seen with whom on Saturday night, turned into vicious gossip that hurt everyone involved. People started a rumor just for attention. Often to break the label placed on them by others.

"I started to do things and dress differently just so other people didn't think I was such a goody-goody," said one Granger sophomore wishing to keep her identity unrevealed.

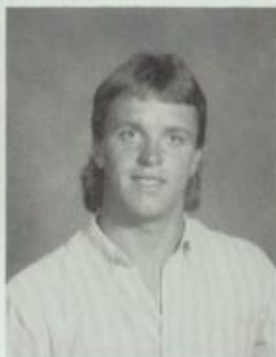

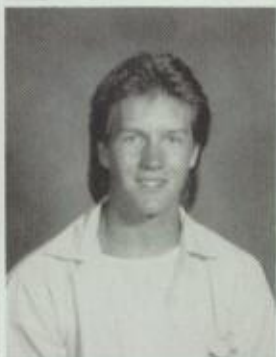

It was very shocking to find out that one of the people most admired as a role model was seen smoking and drinking at parties and concerts just because he thought it was very fashionable to do so. There were songs about them, soap operas based on them, and people spread them. Rumors. If you were not careful they could get you.

EXCUSES, EXCUSES!

Perhaps it was a challenge for some students to come up with excuses to get out of class and to forge notes for their friends.

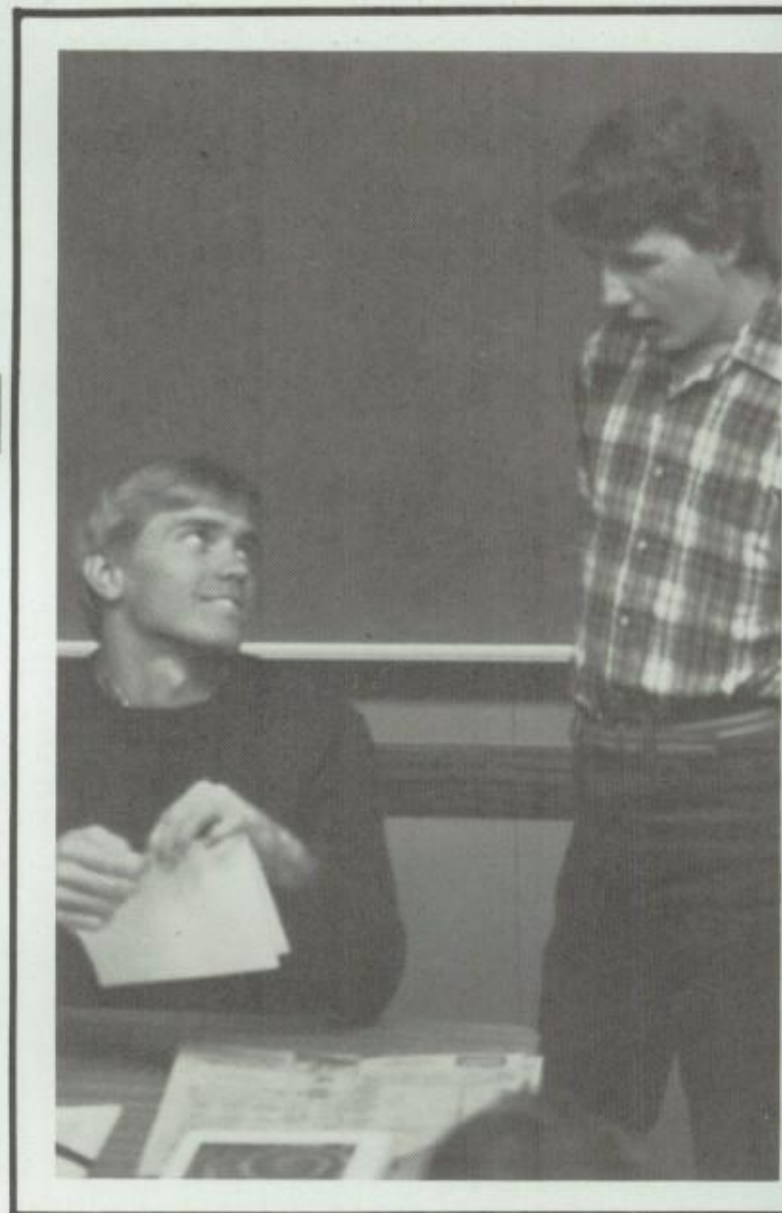

Sophomores were never seen in the halls without a hallpass, and this was a seldom occurrence. This was because of the stories told by seniors of what happens when you are caught sluffing.

Juniors that finally overcame the fear, found out that excuses could easily be made and would usually get them out of class. They would have contests to see who could get out of class the most, and who could come up with the most original excuses.

The seniors didn't even bother with excuses for being late. They just didn't come to class or just got up and left with no reason at all.

Lock-outs were used to try and stop tardiness. Many students thought that being suspended was a little extreme. Lock-outs seemed to work, and students got to class on time without excuses for being late.

"Did I Hear Ringing?"

"What was going on?" People were jumping off their seats, hitting the ceiling and heading for the doors. "Why?" Because of the sound ringing in their ears. As they reached the door they soon found out that the ringing wasn't the fire bell, but the bell for class to be over.

Walking down the hall one could hear many of the students imitating our new bell, thinking it was quite funny. Still other students would have liked to blow away the irritating and harassing sound with a twenty-two.

Troy Whitworth's first thought was "Boy, this bell is quite different and unique."

"Oh great, we have to go to class now!", was all Shad Roundy could think of. Debra Nielson stated, "It was good because it drove me crazy!" For most students the new Granger bell was still just a sign of warning which meant it was time for class to start.

The only benefit about the bell was the thankful feeling we had when after two nerve wracking weeks the boring old traditional bell system returned. This meant no more sophomores running from the building yelling "Fire! Fire!"

The last bell of the day, no matter what sound it made, meant it was 2:20 and we were all free to go home.

YEAR OF EXPERIMENT

At the very beginning of every year the school had Sophomore elections. A few of the sophomore students campaigned to be elected for pres, vice pres, sec., and passed out handouts saying "vote for me." Then they had an assembly to let people know that they were really like. When the day finally came they found out who won. This year the sophomore class officers were as follows: Pres. Jeff Jordan, Vice Pres. Dave Ryan, Sec. Delanna Cales, ALO Kammy Taylor and Jodi Satory.

David Ryan-"I love being an officer. Its a great opportunity to get to know everyone."

These officers were involved in many activities this year. But their biggest activity was Harvest Ball. They decorated the stonehenge and counted ballots for the Royalties, and provided the music. Another activity they did was assisting the faculty with birthday remembrances each month. The sophomores participated throughout the year in many other activities. They did a great job making this school year a successful one.

"HOW MUCH SALT?"

Four people in one unit. Two for the dishes and two for the cooking. This worked out well, things would get finished a lot faster and things would always be organized well almost always.

Once in a while, during cooking someone would put in the salt and then leave to get other ingredients. Meanwhile, another person not realizing put more salt into the dish. The salt had been added, when it came time to eat the dish the double-salting was soon discovered.

There were many reasons why people signed up for foods classes. "I think foods is a fun class. It helped out a lot. If people ever have a chance to join a foods class, they should," commented Michelle Romero. Stacy Poulsen thought taking a foods class was important, "It helps a person learn how to cook different foods, which will help when one is out on his/her own."

"WHERE AM I?"

The sophomores thought that going from sixth grade to seventh grade was awful, but they never realized that going from ninth grade to tenth grade could be even worse. There they were in this huge school not knowing where they were going.

Could I have been the only sophomore that didn't know where I was going? I asked Jana Cloward and Michelle Black, "No problem, we always have known where we're going". Oh well, I just think nobody would admit they were lost. I wouldn't have felt so bad those first few awful days, but this real nice senior gave me this great buy on an elevator pass, and I couldn't even find the elevator!

Well after those initial days of being late and walking into the wrong classes, and the boys locker room. I finally found my way around. "But where was the elevator?"

HOW EMBARRASSING!

"I could have died . . ." Everyone sometime in their life had a very embarrassing incident occur. Students at Granger High related a few of these sterling moments. "I tried to open the wrong locker. Everyone was watching me move to the right locker," said Lola Howard. Dianne Rivera cringed as she remembered "I was being chased across the graves by a West Jordan police car during a Spanish Club party in the cemetery." Mike Powers fondly reminisced about Spanish class, "The teacher asked how do you say, would you go out with me in Spanish? I said Haz las tareas (do your homework.) I was the joke of the class for the rest of the year."

"I remember when I was really late for class and I was trying to hurry so I would not get caught in the lockout. I ran really fast and slid into class just in the nick of time. One problem, though, it was the wrong class," laughed Michelle Dee. "After school there was a whole bunch of people behind my cute, 1971 Volvo imported from Switzerland. Of course, it picks then to stall. It would not start for an hour. Everyone was honking and screaming obscenities at me. I just waited for the earth to open up and swallow my awful 1971 Volvo and me," Michelle Russell confided. Didn't everyone think that they were the only person to have something awful happen to them? In reality it was just a normal part of life.

SOCKS OR NOT?

A lot of people wore socks and a lot of people didn't. Whether or not people wore socks depended a lot on styles, convenience, and wearability. Cameron DeVries said he wore socks because "my mom taught me to."

Some shoes worn with socks were penny loafers, top siders, tennis shoes, and dress shoes. However, some people were without socks at all. Style seemed to dictate choice of "foot cover." Veigh Andrews said that he wore socks because, "I will get blisters on my feet if I don't."

Some people would wear socks because they felt better with a pair of shoes worn that day. Some people would wear socks because the day was cold and they wanted their feet warm. Chris Torgerson wore socks because, "My toes would be cold without them." Clint Lingwall said, "I wore socks as a force of habit and besides, if I didn't wear socks what would my grandmother give me for Christmas."

In contrast to Clint, Robert Hole says he does not wear socks because, "It's the IN thing to do." With some people socks were worn because of style, comfort, and warmth, while others just didn't care.

"WHERE'S THE ELEVATOR?"

As sophomores entered Granger High they were confused on where many places were. Among these were "Where's room 116?", "Where's the new building?", or "What is the stonehenge?". But the most amusing of the questions asked by the new-comers was, "Where's the elevator?"

For the first few weeks of discovery, the sophomores kept their eyes peeled for the alluding elevator that they heard about. They were told at Sophomore Orientation by Mr. Jacobs that, "Elevator passes were always available."

When asked by a sophomore where the elevator was, Rod Ramirez said, "I don't know, but I could sell you a pass to the escalator." Mark Enszt said, "Haven't you found it yet?!" Troy Magill stated, "It's down by the Coke machines!"

SMILE! YOU'RE ON CANDID CAMERA

Reese Almond and his co-workers were always found filming the students at Granger. Many students enjoyed being filmed, because they loved to see themselves on the video. Teacy Whiting commented, "Being filmed was fun, but seeing myself was great!"

For two years now Reese and his co-workers have had the opportunity to film and make Granger's Video Year In Review. They put in many extra hours at the events that took place at Granger.

Reese had become like a friend to many of the students. Students enjoyed Reese's smiling face, and him always saying, "Just act yourself."

Granger's Video Year In Review was a video that showed all of the events that took place at Granger. It also showed many students doing various things, and well . . . just being themselves. There was also separate videos available, like varsity team sports, and also many of the clubs.

Reese and his co-workers had become friends with almost all of the student body. Many good times happened at Granger, and we all remembered them as we watched our Video Year In Review. Always remember when something great happened Reese was right there to get it all on film!

"WHAT? I DON'T GET IT!"

"A frog in a postman outfit walks up to a chicken and says ribit, and the chicken says I didn't even know you were sick."

"What? I don't get it," someone replied. Everyone started to laugh, and started calling this person a sponge. Feeling real stupid he/she decided to never say anything again, and laugh along with the joke even though he/she might not get it.

Did some of us usually feel that way? Thinking that we were a big sponge like we never got anything or believed everything we heard.

Bonnie Clift said, "people called me dingy blond because I believe everything," Ron Kaller replied, "if anyone called me a sponge they would not live to see tomorrow."

Lara Parker also stated, "everyone called me a sponge because I believed anything, but I would rather be called a sponge than a Jelly Fish." Many names were given to people to show that if you told them anything they would believe you. Many students hated to be called a sponge, but remember all you sponges out there, at least you're not a Jelly Fish.

THE ANCHOR MAN

As another great year comes to a close, I would like to express my appreciation to the staff and students of Granger High School for their dedication and many achievements.

Seniors, I have enjoyed my association with you this year. You will achieve many things in your life, but one of the most significant things so far is your high school diploma. You are to be congratulated. I would like to wish you success in your future endeavors.

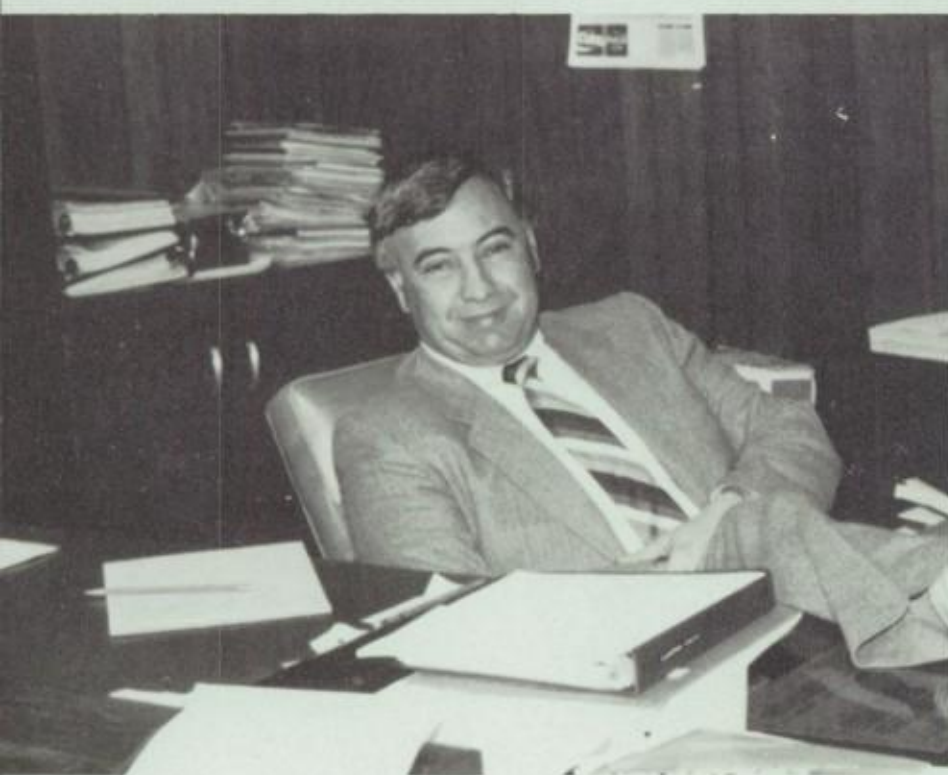

Sophomores and Juniors, we expect great accomplishments from you next year.

I would like to thank Mrs. Baskin and the yearbook staff for our excellent yearbook.

—Mr. Ken Griener

Mr. Griener, a former coach of football, track and golf at Granger High, shows how to kick back and take it easy on a not so easy day.

Reaching out a helping hand, our principal has always shown concern for students by encouraging us to achieve and set goals.

THE LIFE PRESERVERS

Your high school years will live forever in your memory, most of you will remember these days fondly and cherish the friendships you have made at Granger. As a faculty we have worked together to help you understand the communication process, to enable you to gain communication skills.

Your teachers have challenged you to develop analytical and critical thinking abilities. These are tools you will treasure as you make your way in a competitive world.

I hope you have learned to use your imagination and express your creative thoughts. These skills are requirements as you strive to understand and accept your responsibility in our democratic society.

Cherish your past and welcome your future. You are truly the promise of tomorrow.

— Mr. Del Gurr

Hello Granger! How are you doing? Doing well, I hope. When you read this next year, or in 5 years, I hope you will be able to answer the same. "Doing well" is not a chance happening. You just don't begin to do well — you don't just end doing well — you work at doing well. You plan to do well. You prepare to do well. You live to do well. This yearbook will help to remind you how well you were then or how much more well you are now! So, when we see each other again... "Hey, Hello! How ya doing?" Doing well, doing well!

— Mr. Parley Jacobs

THE SUPERINTENDENT

Dr. John Reed Call was the man who made the final decisions concerning everything in Granite School District. He has a very important job as he was the boss of Utah's biggest school district. This year he made an important decision as he chose to have five of the grade schools try year round school for the 1987-'88 year. This effort will hopefully eliminate the overcrowding. He worked hand in hand with the Board of Education.

THE BOARD OF EDUCATION

On January 6, 1987 a meeting for the Board of Education was held. At this time, Board Member Gary C. Swensen was elected President for a two-year term, with Lynn D. Davidson being elected Vice-President. At the same meeting, J. Dale Christensen and Judith A. Larson pronounced the oath of office, following their election for four-year terms of office on the Granite School Board. Briant G. Badger was reappointed by the Board of Education as Business Administrator Treasurer. Patricia Sandstorm was also re-elected.

Someone scratched my face again today, during third period I think. I was sitting there, minding my own business, supporting the future of America with my four metal legs, and the goon wrote all over me with a ball point pen. It's hard to read, but it looks something like this to me: I've become a forced collector of folk art. I've been tatooed by pencil, pen, knife, and paper clip, though my complexion isn't my only problem. I've got a cracked back, a split seat, weak welds, and a sprung book

Who Were They?

Teachers? Who were they? Where did they come from? And what were they doing here? Every student may have wondered these questions considering some of the stunts the teachers had pulled.

Keeping the attention of thirty some-odd students for a whole hour and a half was not an easy task. Teachers told jokes of all kinds. Some teachers even tried playing games.

The teachers each had their own special qualities in presenting their subject to the classes. Acting scenes from plays and historical events were a favorite part of Mrs. Cole and Mr. Smith's classes.

By involving the students in various activities, it was the teachers' effort to keep the students from falling asleep. Did it work? Or did it show the students that to be a teacher, one had to be a little on the "unusual" side?

Thanks teachers for putting up with the strange acts the students pulled and for getting them through high school.

Mr. Van den Akker- "I believe we should execute two students randomly at the beginning of the year."

Mrs. Taylor- "Working at Granger is very INTERESTING."

COOKING IT UP

The cooks of Granger High were busy every morning baking bread and rolls, cooking hamburgers and other main dishes, salads, and special desserts. For variety, the salad bar was assembled with dressings freshly made.

Of course some people did not like school lunch, like Sarah Montgomery, she said, "I eat school lunch because my mom makes me," and Mike Schaeling said, "I just don't like school lunch, but I eat it anyway." A lot of students enjoy school lunch, Brooks Fuller said, "I would rather eat school lunch than a lunch from home, it's better."

Granger High School's cafeteria was always kept neat and clean. The ladies who cooked the food always did a good job. The cooks were busy making good lunches for all of the student body and faculty to enjoy.

A few students, instead of eating the school lunches which were only 85 cents, would buy candy bars and soda pop which were far more expensive and not at all as nutritious.

Although most people appreciated the wonderful lunches, some didn't but always, faithfully the ladies of Granger High School's cafeteria were there to keep our school from straving before the end of the day.

Granger High School's cooks get prepared for the hectic day of making lunches for the student body and faculty. Thanks to these women we always ate well at the fine school of GHS.

KEEPING IT CLEAN

The halls at Granger High School were always kept clean. The maintenance engineers made sure the floors were swept and the lockers were clean from pencil and ink marks.

Although the students did not think of the janitors while making the school a mess, the custodians were appreciated by all.

Jan Albertson said, "I think the janitors are doing a very good job making sure that the halls are clean," another student Pat Atencio said, "They do a good job, but we need more garbage cans." Also Jamie Crookston said, "I Believe the maintenance engineering staff of Granger High School is an excellent staff of workers, thank you."

The custodians cleaned everything from bathrooms to windows, and carpets to tile floors. Not only were there janitors in the school working through the day but a different set of janitors came to clean through the night, to make the school clean for the following day.

Extra-curricular activities highlight the year

Along with studying and working, being involved in different clubs and organizations was an important part of a student's life.

Organizations ranged from occupational clubs, to business clubs, like FBLA and DECA, from Language Clubs like German and Spanish, to all kinds of service clubs like the Usher's Club. Also, different organizations like the Yearbook Staff, the Tri-Color Times, and the Accolade were a big part of student's life.

Most of the clubs had several parties and different activities throughout the year. Some clubs had activities with other schools, and a few had regional and state competitions for students in the clubs. For some of the really involved students, club activities took up almost all of their spare time.

Organizations were an important part of high school, and being involved in different clubs and activities made the Granger High experience even more exciting than usual.

Madrigals

The Madrigals participated in many events throughout the school year, proving to be one of the most talented and spirited groups of the school.

They discovered that much dedication and hard work was required. From the beginning of the school year to the end of the school year, they practiced many long hours in preparation for various concerts.

One of their best experiences of the year came when they performed with the best vocalists in the state at the All-State Concert held in the Salt Lake Tabernacle.

During the Christmas season, the Madrigals performed up to four concerts in one day. Some of the places where performances were held were Snowbird, Promise Valley Playhouse, the State Capitol, and in the Santa Claus Parade.

Even though they practiced and worked long hard hours, the Mads still found time for fun. Some of their favorite past times included kissing tag, ice fights, farm house (each had their own farm animal name) and car tag. After many hours of practice and hard work, these fun times were a needed break.

"Won't you guide my sleigh tonight?" Sure! They performed this number so many times that they could do it in their sleep.

As times get tough the Mads are always ready to hang in there. The girls lent support to the guys throughout the year.

Concert Choir

Upon entering Granger High many young sophomores from the class of '87 also entered the Girls and Boys Choirs. Soon maturity took its course, and along with a few more faces the two groups became the Junior Choir. Eventually, after a lot of yelling and struggling, the group finally became old enough to call themselves the Granger High Concert Choir.

The choir's first official step was to elect the choir presidency. After all of the ballots were in and counted the group had voted on: President, Roger Muir; Vice President, Lynn Holden; Secretary, Michelle Romero; Treasurers, Christy Cole and Coralyn Shoell.

After two years of mock concerts in the auditorium the group was finally able to perform for larger audiences. During the Christmas season concerts were held at the Capital Rotunda, the ZCMI Center (where they were able to sing live for KSL Radio), and the Assembly Hall and South Visitors Center, at the L.D.S. Temple Square.

The group as a whole will always share many fond memories about their senior year. Among the memories the following will probably be included: Those ugly orange dresses, sneaking out the practice room window, Roger yelling because nobody would line up, the guys baggy suits, sluffing when ever there was a substitute, all of those people who received Hate Letters, the Prime Time Access interview, and all of the fun memories we all made.

Chris Bailey- I like being in Concert Choir it was a lot of fun to perform in front of the audience at our concerts.

choir members were always seen laughing in huddled masses. They always focused their time on singing and having a good time.

Jazz Choir

During the past year the students of Granger High were greeted in song by the Jazz Choir.

1986-87 was the first year for Jazz Choir and its members. The Jazz Choir members wanted to make a good impression and did so at their first performance which was during Hello Week.

The songs that the Jazz Choir performed were very enjoyable to the students of Granger High. "Blues Down to My Shoes" and "Boogie Woogie Bugle Boy" were a couple of the songs which the Jazz Choir members really enjoyed.

Julie Hansen, a member of the Jazz Choir stated, "I like being in Jazz Choir, it is a lot of fun."

The Jazz Choir had many outside school performances, for example: elementary schools, Snowbird Ski Resort, and various parties.

Around Christmas the Jazz Choir, along with some of the other choirs, recorded songs for KSL to be played during the Holidays. It was very enjoyable for them to hear their songs on the radio.

The outfits that the 1986-87 Jazz Choir performed in were flashy and original, which helped make the audience more interested.

The members of the Jazz Choir spent many hours in school and out of school practicing for their performances.

In one word, Jazz Choir was "spectacular" their first year.

Members of Jazz Choir practice one of their Christmas numbers. They sang jazzed up Christmas tunes at their Christmas concerts.

Junior Choir

This year's Junior Choir showed great talent and promise. They exhibited this talent at the concerts where they performed. Audiences were held captive during all their numbers.

The first concert of the year was held on October 30, 1986. Among their numbers Jr. Choir sang "This Old House Is Haunted", adding their own sound effects to make the song more realistic. This song helped in adding a Halloween spirit to the evening. The concert was the first in a series of concerts.

In their Christmas Concert, the Junior Choir joined together with the Concert Choir and Orchestra to sing the final numbers "Unto Us a Child is Born" and the "Hallalua Chorus."

All members of Junior Choir gained a greater appreciation and understanding of music, and had an enjoyable time.

Sophomore Boy's Choir

The first choir that a sophomore boy entered, if he had a desire to sing, was the sophomore Boy's Choir.

The choir consisted of seven members. Many of the songs that were sung by the choir were arranged in Barber Shop Quartet style.

While developing their voices they learned to sing harmony with one another. The sophomore boy's performed in many concerts, for example: the fall Choir Concert and spring Concert. At the Christmas Concert the sophomore boy's and sophomore girl's Choirs sang in tune with one another. That gave them the chance to see what it would be like in a mixed choir.

The choir had a lot of enthusiasm in their songs which made it possible for their audiences to become involved and relaxed.

Sophomore Girls Choir

Sixth period was a time for girls in choir to unite in song and harmony.

The soprano/alto choir, which was made up of sophomore girls had an excellent 1986-87 year.

Attending their fall concert, the girls choir put a lot of ardor into their songs which made it a very delightful experience for the audience.

The Christmas Concert was full of joyous spirit. The girls choir sang their songs with all their hearts, putting in actions and facial expressions to give their songs a more joyous effect.

There were many other concerts that the girls choir performed. Getting the audience involved was very easy for them, because their songs were full of comedy, joy and even sadness. Their year was a great one.

Honor Society

The 1986-87 Granger High School Chapter of the National Honor Society consisted of all those eligible students whose grade point average was 3.500 or better (with the exception of A.P. students who could go as low as 3.000). All of the activities were planned and arranged by the Presidential committee. These officers were: Marlow Springer, Christine Cole, Angela Butters, Glenna Bryan, Melinda Bushman, Mark Ensz, and Katherine Kellersberger. The advisor, Mr. Madsen, stated, "The pursuit of academic excellence is its own reward. The objective of the National Honor Society is to better serve the community through the development of leadership qualities. The continuing responsibility of membership is a lasting commitment to academic excellence and a willingness to be involved in school and community service projects."

The five dollar dues, paid by all members, were used for the socials and for the banquet at the end of the year. The opening social, held on March 5, was ice skating at Murray Park.

Marlow Springer -
"Even though Mr. Madsen was hopelessly literal, we were able to get something done this year."

Wind Ensemble

Wind Ensemble

The Wind Ensemble was part of the 1986-87 Royal Lancer Brigade (the marching band, pictured on page 107). They were directed by Mr. Robert Crump, who lead them in all of their performances.

The class time, along with sectional rehearsals was used to prepare them for performances at pep assemblies, home games, the Region Concert, the Band Festival, Christmas concerts, and concerts at local junior high and elementary schools.

The style of music played ranged from rock music, that was played at the pep assemblies, to the classics, played at events similar to the Region Concert and the Band Festival.

Fred Luttmner-
"Wind Ensemble
was the most outstanding concert band I've played in."

Cindy Wadsworth-
"Wind Ensemble is HOT!!"

Jazz Ensemble

The best members of the Wind Ensemble join together each year to form an elite musical group called the Jazz Ensemble, under the direction of Mr. Robert Crump. They all shared a common interest in performing jazz and contemporary music.

The emphasis in the class was on learning to improvise. During extra rehearsals they prepared for performances, such as the musical, several Christmas concerts, and the Regional Jazz Festival.

The instruments they played included saxes, trumpets, trombones, drums, electronic keyboards, and even electric guitars.

They were known for their diverse styles of haberdashery (hats), and were the highlights of all of the programs that they appeared in during the school year.

Rob Drent gets ready to bop Tina Winward on the head. Orchestra is full of music, fun, and games.

Consisting of 24 students, the 1986-'87 Granger High School Orchestra was one of the most talented music groups in the school.

Under the direction of James Thompson, the orchestra members worked very hard to perform their best at the Fall, Christmas, and Spring Concerts throughout the year. Their hard work also paid off when they combined with Granite High School's orchestra for a four day concert tour to Arizona in March.

Ten members not only played in the school orchestra but also in the Granite Youth Symphony. This symphony was a combination of all the best musicians from all the high schools in the district.

Throughout the school year the orchestra members worked hard to improve their talents and abilities. This hard work paid off at the sound of the applause from the audience.

Bonnie Simmons fiddles around on her cello. A lot of preparation was put into their concerts.

Lancerettes

The Marching Band and Lancerettes supported Granger High in several activities.

Practices were continuous to perfect the march and music. The use of Rice Stadium was helpful while Granger's new football field was under construction.

Playing music while marching was a very difficult feat and the marching band seemed to master this. They participated in the Homecoming Parades at Ricks College in Rexburg, Idaho and Dixie College in St. George, Utah. At Ricks College they won an award for the "Best Band" and won second division at Dixie College.

They have participated in Granger High's Homecoming parade, as well as at the football and basketball games.

The band also participated in the Nebo Band Tour in Payson, Utah, and the Region Festival. Also the band toured Southern California.

The marching band and Lancerettes represented the school in both the Salt Lake and West Valley City Christmas parades.

Through out the entire school year the Marching band and Lancerettes were there to represent Granger High School in both state and out of state events. Working hard was the main feature of making the band one of the best.

The band marches in step at the Homecoming parade. It took hours of hard work to learn to march together.

Every member of the band counts. Cathleen Christiansen played the clarinet with the marching band in the Homecoming parade.

Lancerettes march in front of the band carrying the banner with our school name. They represented the school, along with the band, at the school events.

Dance Company

Dance expresses emotion through movement and creativity. Granger High's Dance Club performed this in different concerts and special performances.

Jolynn Bolton- "I Love to Dance."

Jennifer Nelson- "I perform better when I make up my own dance."

This was the first year for the new dance studio at the school. Here the dancers choreographed and practiced their dances to perform in front of different audiences.

Many hours of pain and sweat went into the endurance of being a good dancer. Being in good shape, flexible, and being able to express themselves through music were some of the qualities dancers had. Granger High's Dance Company displayed, "that it all payed off" at their performances and competi-

There were several members in dance club. The officers were, Holly Gregg, Jen Nelson, Jolynn Bolton, Kim Hatch, Leslie Draper and Debbie Hammer. Lorna Strong was the advisor and was proud of the hard working girls in her company.

Most of the dancers tried out because they simply "Loved to Dance". This was evident through the expressions on their faces as they performed.

The dancers enjoyed the thrill of performing. While they were showing the great talent that Granger dancers had.

Practice was an important part for the members of Dance Company. During dance concerts all of the practice payed off.

Debate

Debate, otherwise known as forensics, was one of the largest clubs at Granger. The Debate team worked before, during, and after school to prepare for the competition at tournaments.

The officers were: President, Quang Dang; Vice President, Christie Malohi; Business Manager, Jamie Gull; Treasurer, Matthew Kosak; Chief Captain, Lashaunda Lewis; Historian, Ronna Stephens; Advisor, Bonnie Gailey. Debate involved choosing an issue, doing research and then debating either for or against the issue.

Debate can be one of the most rewarding experiences and one of the most challenging. Most debaters spent all of their free time researching a topic and practicing. Weekends were not time off, they were working weekends filled with tournament after tournament.

Some of the most important tournaments consisted of the Governors Cup, State tournament, and the University of Utah Invitational. Many of the debaters went down to California with the Drama club to compete.

Students concentrate on what is being said in order to become better debaters. The members of debate often practiced during, before, and after school.

Drama Club

The Drama Club consisted of very talented individuals. Many activities were planned throughout the 1986-87 school year.

One of the major activities the Drama Club was involved in was competition. The club members went to different high schools in Utah and competed against other students from many schools with scenes, monologues, dramatic interps, humorous interps, and pantomimes that they had worked on throughout the year. Some club members went to California with the debate club and competed.

Many of the students in the Drama Club participated in the school musical, "Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat", and the school play, "Our Hearts were Young and Gay" which were two fantastic productions.

The Drama Club officers are as follows: La Shaunda Lewis - President, Clint Lingwall - Vice President, Ron Kaller - Treasurer, Jennifer Erikson - Secretary, Jamie Crookston - Historian, Jodi Alldredge - Publicity Chairman, with the publicity committee: Chris Baily, Jennifer Finlayson, Chris Torgerson, and Bonnie Clift.

French is a difficult language to learn, but our illustrious French Club made it all sound easy. The officers were as follows: President, Clint Turner; Vice President, Monica Burgi; Secretary, Michelle Wanless; Treasurer, Debbie Smith; and Historian, Debbie Richards. The advisor was Mrs. DeLong.

During the year, the club enjoyed activities such as brunch, parties, French films, and videos. Activities were planned by the presidency, and often were held in the homes of the members.

The year was started off right with a Sunday brunch, held at the French Restaurant "La Caille." Those attending had a wonderful French meal, and were able to enjoy each others company. A Mardi Gras was also on the agenda for club members.

Kamie Taylor - "I enjoy French because it is tres bien!"

Debbie Richards - When asked about French replied, "Difficile!"

Stephanie Angelos, one of the French Club members, expresses her feelings of the counting systems while others listen.

Students were amazed by the abilities of the computer. Computers were used throughout Granger High to help the learning process become easier and more advanced.

Playing games, such as a broom handle grip contest, were a part of enjoying the German Culture. Participating in class was a main requirement.

German Club

The German Club was one of the largest clubs at Granger High. Even though German was a difficult language to learn, Mr. Goates' creative influence made it fun. Tammy Van Roosendaal expressed this idea when she said, "Es ist Prima!" Extra-credit was available for those students who needed a boost to pass the class. "No one should have had trouble passing the class because of the many opportunities for extra-credit. One could talk Mr. Goates into giving additional points for almost anything pertaining to the German language, short of eating German Chocolate cake or owning a German shephard," confided a student who wished to remain anonymous. The association got together with other schools in the district area for a fun-filled evening at the 49th St. Galleria. Dining at Siegfried's and Marianne's delicatessen were a favorite with the club. The Richie theater provided German movies for those who were culturally adventurous. Pam Loertcher, German club president, said, "I feel that anyone ever considering being a part of the German club, should join. It's a fun club. People learn another language plus more about their own language, while having fun!"

Spanish Club

There were thirty-three members in the rapidly growing 1986-87 Spanish Club as compared to twenty-three members in the club during 1982-83.

Spanish teacher, Mr. Nielson said, "Our Spanish club members and officers created a lot of fun, and worked hard and learned a lot." The Spanish club officers were: President, Kathy Kellersberger; Vice-President, Dianne Rivera; Treasurer, David Newton; Historian, Alisha Talbot.

The opening social was held on November 1, at the Memorial Estates, where they sat around the graves, ate a picnic, and shared scary stories. The real scare came, however, when a policeman arrived and demanded to know what they were doing there. One of the club's members stated, "We have reservations." Fortunately they had been given permission to be at the graveyard and everything worked out fine.

Club members usually met after school in Mr. Nielson's room with an attitude ready to have a good time.

Requirements for being in the Spanish club were casual. If someone wanted to be in the club, he or she could do so by stating a desire to belong and paying the $5.00 membership fee.

Members say the money was well worth it just for all the good times.

Jason Mehan -
"Something to keep me busy when I'm not wrestling."

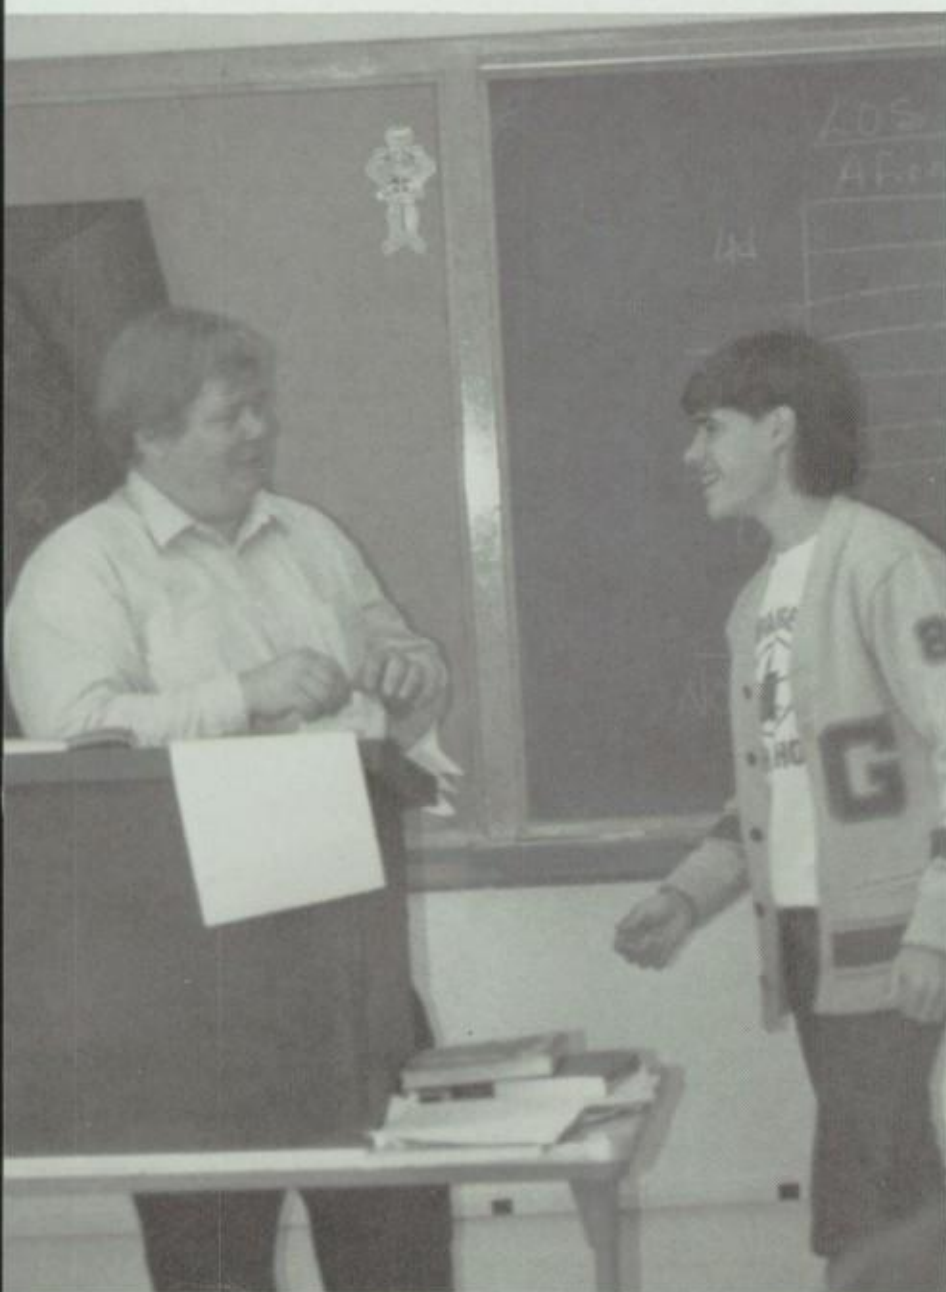

Kathy Kellersberger -
"Great social life being in the club."

Students interests vary from listening to the teacher to just socializing. Spanish club helped students learn a second language.

Spanish club members were enthusiastic about starting class. The Spanish teacher's were Mr. Nielson and Miss Andrew.

Accolade

Deadlines and due dates were two very common words widely used in room 2 of the New Building. Not very many people realized how much time, work, and effort went into the production of Granger High's literary magazine. The members of the Accolade staff were mostly gifted writers who contributed to the project. Both teachers and students submitted to the magazine. The staff judged these entries by reading them aloud to each other thoroughly, to understand the full meaning of the work. The very finest modern literature collection was formed due to the staff's dedication. This annual publication was then entered in national competition. The main goal of the staff was to get recognition for people's writing and artwork. The Accolade showed that Granger not only excelled in sports, but also academically.

Sherry Jacobson-Accolade was the best experience I have had to help me learn responsibility.

Jake Shjewmake-I liked the class alot. I met a lot of neat people and I learned to write better.

Writing in journals was one of the daily activities the Accolade Staff participated in.

It would certainly help if students had their pictures taken alphabetically. Cindy struggles on.

Publications involve a surprising amount of work. But first, the staff needs fresh air and exercise.

Yearbook is a "get involved" class. The royal eight enjoy a brief moment of relaxation.

GHS yearbook has 232 pages. This thought has given Becky a great sense of priority.

Headaches and deadlines go together. Roger's favorite mug helps him survive.

There has never been a more organized group of people who love each other and who come together and argue, scream and create.

The yearbook staff dove into 232 blank pages of the yearbook; and, after splashing, yelling, dunking, kicking and swimming, completed all the strokes needed to finish GHS's 1987 Shield. This year's staff worked very hard to make the best yearbook possible.

Thanks for the memories of Roger, wearing his warm slippers as he wisely made a zillion decisions. For Becky who was the woman behind the man. She had the wisdom and memory to complete quality work. For Rachelle and Brenda's attention to detail and accepting new and different assignments. Rachelle once said, "I had no idea these athletes got so emotional over sports." For Stacy's editing skills and Lisa's layout skills. For Carol's art and Christine's ability to alphabetize. For Mark's knowledge of the computer and Kris's loyal enthusiasm. For Janean's patience and kindness and Cindy's understanding. For Glen and Troy's taking endless pictures. For Taunya for being an excellent liaison. For Jennifer and Terri who unselfishly helped everyone and for Jodie, who always remembered us.

We'll never forget the Thanksgiving feast and the Christmas exchange; or the accident at Blairs that made us all count our blessings. We appreciate the administration's support, Blair Photography (they have always been Granger's friend) and Jostens' skills.

Thanks yearbook family for presenting all of us with an unforgettable gift

Lory Anderson and Julie Meeks dream up new ideas for the newspaper. Lory Anderson also served as Communication V.P. for the S.B.O.'s.

Byron Tate and Cherie Dennis react to the end of a long day. Much work was put into putting the Tri-Color Times together.

Tri-Color Times

The "Tri-Color-Times" was the official publication for Granger High School. Its staff of eighteen was dedicated to covering as many events as possible.

The newspaper recieved a new masthead this year, designed by Mr. Don Lee. Scott Bagshaw, Studentbody President, used the "Tri-Color-Times" as a means of communication to recognise, praise, and inform students through his monthly editorial.

Stephanie Cosney, Cherie Dennis, John Draper, Ginger Guest, Kellie Hendricks, Chanda Kunz, Vickie St.Clair, reporters; Dan Wahlberg, photographer.

The newspaper was published monthly and kept the studentbody well informed, through its coverage of news, sports and events that happened at Granger.

The Tri-Color Times staff put a lot of extra time into getting the newspaper out each month. They worked during their class, and long into the night. The studentbody looked forward to receiving it every month.

Julee Meeks and Kaleen Carroll get excited upon seeing the final product. Julee Meeks was the editor-in-cheif of the Tri-Color Times.

Peer Leadership

This year Granger High School's Peer Leadership Team consisted of 15 students and an advisor, Chan Springer. P.L.T. was a group of students trained in peer counseling and working under the assumptions that youth care a great deal about their fellow peers and that youth recognize the tremendous negative aspects of life and can try to prevent such problems.

The purpose was to have youth speak out and express their feelings about problems in their lives; such as drugs, alcohol, relationships, problems at home, pregnancy, suicide, and peer pressure. Then, they as a group helped others with these problems.

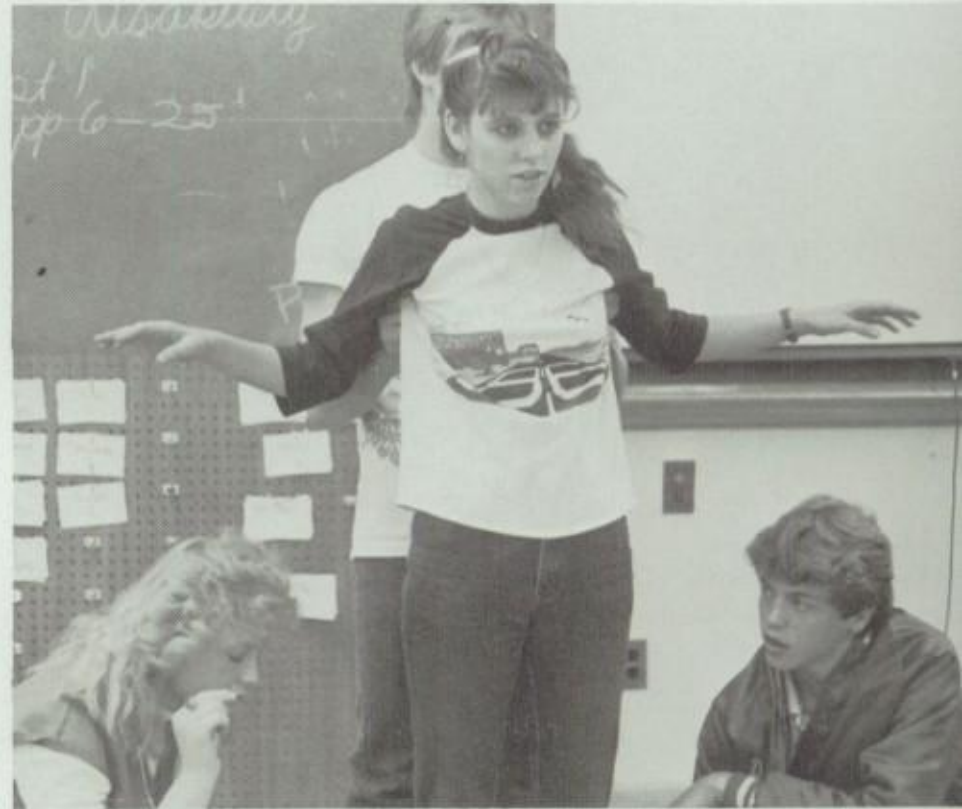

Peer Leadership was involved in many activities throughout the year. One of these activities was boundry breakers. This activity enabled students to get to know each other in the group as well as others. Another activity they participated in was the Granger High Homecoming Parade. In the parade they portrayed Carebears and had the theme, "We care-a-lot." They also helped with the drinking and driving assembly presented to GHS by Pepsi-Cola.

During the year the members of PLT also went to several Jr. high and elementary schools. While there they taught the students about peer problems with today's youth.

P.L.T. discusses how to help others deal with their problems. Students learned to help others as well as themselves.

Support and friendship is the name of the game in Peer Leadership. The group taught others how to deal with peer pressure.

'We care-a-lot' was the theme chosen by the Peer Leadership Team for the Homecoming Parade. The team was also involved in many other activities.

USHERS CLUB

The Ushers Club consisted of some of the "Big Bad Boys" of the school! In this club they helped people into the auditorium and they also escorted people out. They didn't always wait to escort the people out; however, sometimes they helped people leave in the middle of an assembly because the person was not behaving.

The Ushers were appreciated very much because they attended not only the assemblies during the day but also the after school productions. This was very useful and created a support system that was respected.

CYCLING CLUB

What did not cost anything, was casual and vivacious, and one-half of the club consisted of alumni?

The cycling club. The leaders of these cyclers were as follows: advisor Mr. Crooks, Barbara Ann Julian president, and Mike Dunn Vice-president.

This club accepted anyone who liked to ride his bicycle. They went on bike tours on weekends, participated in training rides, and in the spring they took a trip, (on bicycles of course), around the Oquirrh Mountains.

Spirit Club

It all started last spring when fifty talented girls tried out and made spirit club. The number of girls that tried out was overwhelming and only a mere few were selected.

Spirit club participated in several Homecoming activities; from putting on a skit in the assembly, marching in the parade and winning first place for hall decorations, in which they decorated the new building in under the sea decorations with fish, etc.

The long practices and hard work was directed by Rondalee Anderson. The work paid off when the spirit club participated in pep assemblies and supported all minor sports, which included marching and cheering at home Football and Basketball games. They also marched at the State Football Tournament.

The spirit club hosted a tournament in April and represented Granger very well in various competitions.

The sophomores that were in spirit club were really involved in the different school activities that kept them busy throughout the year. And what a better way to cheer on the school than to be in spirit club. They represented Granger well, with their hard work and devotion.

The Spirit Club marched in the Homecoming parade. Every organization of Granger High participated in the parade.

Breaking in the new field Spirit Club began with the presentation of the flag.

At Homecoming, Grangers Spirit Club marched on the new Football field. They cheered at football and Basketball games.

FHA/HERO PREPARING FOR THE FUTURE

One of the acknowledged clubs of Granger was FHA/HERO (Future Homemakers of America) which was sponsored by the Home Economics Department.

Anyone could be a member, boy or girl, because everyone has a home and FHA emphasizes qualities and habits needed in a home situation.

Many of their activities were incorporated into the home economics classes, like the fashion consultant who spoke to the clothing classes during the year.

They also had some after school meetings and activities. They had fundraisers throughout the year, which helped out with the costs, dues, and other activities.

FHA/HERO members attended a regional meeting at Taylorsville held in February during FHA/HERO week.

FHA also held worthwhile meetings to work on projects. These meetings were to help the members grow and meet the challenges that they would face in life.

FBLA

The Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA) was an organization whose purpose was to prepare high school students for the business world, and to allow members to develop their skills in business management.

Some activities that FBLA was involved with were the following: going to play golf at The 49th Street Galleria and going to Show Bizz for pizza. In their District Installment meeting Jackie Nokes was the guest speaker. FBLA and DECA combined for a District Barn Party with a hay ride and a dance. A fund raiser that they've had was selling chocolate Santa Clauses. Other activities were District and State Competitions, and National Competitions, held in Los Angeles in July.

The FBLA officers were as follows: President, Scott

Franson; Vice-Presidents, Shane Newman and Mathew Watt; Secretary, Cheri Palmer; Treasurer, Carole McNeely; Historian, Julie Collard; Publications, Linda Vosch and Clint Turner. Reporters were Jolyn Camp and Lisa Redzinski, Credit Union officers, Keri Griffone and Mark Magnusson.

DECA

Distributing Education Clubs of America, a student-centered organization whose program of leadership and personal development, is designed specifically for students enrolled in Marketing, Mail Merchandising, and Fashion Merchandising. Four items that DECA consisted of had the following: Social Intelligence, Civic Consciousness, Vocational Understanding, and Leadership Development. DECA has put these items into action.

Some activities that DECA had been involved with were: their Opening Social, which was going to the Haunted House, and then out to pizza. They had a District Barn Party with FBLA, and participated in a skiing and a swimming pool party. Their Western Regional Conference was a big hit and lasted for three days. The first night the 49th Street Galleria was opened just for DECA members, where Dan Clarke was the opening guest speaker. Workshops were available, and the closing speaker was Debbie Fields from Mrs. Field's Cookies.

Vocational Understanding was available for the members who wanted help in competing in the District and State Competitions. National Competition was the destination for the first, second, and third winners of the State Competitions.

The DECA officers were as follows: President - John Morris, Vice Presidents were Chris Searle and Kristy Behunin, Secretary - Janalyn Herrick, Reporter - Michelle Pease, and for DECA District Representative - Lisa Redzinski.

David Marsh really gets involved in his work. Fresh cookies were made daily to sell at the bookstore.

Occupational Foods

Occupational Foods was a class sponsored by the Home Economics department. Its purpose was to prepare students for successful careers in the food service industry.

The class was taught 2nd, 3rd, 5th, and 6th periods, by Ms. James. This class enabled students to gain on the job experience. The class did this through baking chocolate chip cookies, for Mr. James to sell during both lunches at the bookstore. Also the classes catered dances, parent teacher conferences, luncheons, dinners and breakfasts for people visiting the school.

The new occupational foods room was refurbished and newly equipped with better commercial equipment. This enabled students to work at a greater professional level.

The class operated its own food service incorporation, The Hole in the Wall. This franchise sold pizza, fries, ham sandwiches, and burritos during lunches every Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, providing the students with "hands on" experience while producing and selling. The rest of the school had the opportunity of choosing from a variety of food ranging from the average hot lunch to a pop machine lunch.

This year the class was in-involved in community service; for example, preparing and donating goodies to the festival of trees and making and selling treats for the holidays.

All the students who were involved in an occupational foods class learned more about the food service industry and the future jobs market.

Roger Dastrup loads up the freezer with cookie dough. The use of the new equipment improved the quality of the food.

HOSA

HOSA was a health occupation club that was designed to help students who wanted to go into the medical field and learn the terminology, ethics, and skills of the field. Throughout the year they accomplished several projects and had a lot of fun. One of the neat things that HOSA did with their advisor, Maggie Green was a blood drive. Many students and teachers participated in this activity making it a success. Eighty-seven pints of blood were taken on that one day at Granger High School.

went and stayed at Snowbird while attending some health workshops. While there, students made many friends with students from other schools throughout Utah.

The HOSA officers were superb. Craig Ferguson was the president and successfully competed for the state office of Parliamentary Officer. Matt Brooks served as Vice-President, Chelle Dahle as secretary and treasurer, and Jerry Hiatt, historian. All these students were excellent, organized, and controlled in office.

VICA

Art

One of Granger's most active clubs was VICA. (Vocational Clubs of America) This club consisted of 27 members, and their advisor, Mr. Elmer. The club officers were: President, Troy Cloward; Vice President, Stacy Selva; Secretary, Myron Black; Historian, Richard Smith; and Parliamentarian, Travis Ellis.

Students in VICA had a choice of learning vocational skills in either architectural or mechanical drafting. They were also given the opportunity to work with the new computer programs that aided in drafting problems.

Throughout the year, members were involved in many activities. They sold doughnuts year round as a fund raiser to help pay for their activities and parties.

Some of VICA's accomplishments as a group were raising money for the Emily Johnson Fund, supplying Granger with much needed garbage cans, and composing plans to redo the quad by the lunchroom.

"The art program encompassed a wide range of offerings and opportunity for individual expression through exploring ones own ideas and new ways to do that," stated Peggy Carlson, the teacher of the beginning and advanced art classes at Granger. Also teaching art classes were Mr. Don Lee, and Mr. Del Morris.

Mrs. Carlson went on to say: "We were proud of the quality of work being achieved on all levels of our program, but wish to expressly to mention those who showed a lot of growth through their years at Granger High. They were Becky Birrell, Hyeong Joe, Wendy Stanley, Adam VanWagener, Stacey Vigh, Darin Anderson, Richard Coombs, Trevor Collings, and Han Vu. Coming up next year are many students with exceptional talent. We love them all, and hope they keep up the good work."

The art department was happy to have the new "core curriculum" which required a basic art class for students, before taking an advanced class. This made students more prepared for the advanced classes.

Granger's art program was a great chance for students to develop their talents and to express their emotions in a way that benefitted not only the artist, but also the rest of the student body.

House Builders

Mr. DeHaan shows blueprints to students Paul Burden, Rick Kocherhans, and Cliff Edwards. Thier hard work was rewarded when the house was finished.

The house builders and Occupational Interior Design students were responsible for the creation of Granger High's 1986-87 house. Throughout the year they spent many hours building and decorating the new house.

Under the instruction of their advisor, Mr. DeHaan, the house builders constructed a beautiful rambler home located at 15th East and 4330 South. From October to March, the house builders busily worked on the construction of the house in a morning and afternoon shift learning about every phase of residential building. When all the sawdust had settled, and the last nail had been put in place, the house builders stepped back and viewed the results of all their hard efforts.

Interior Design

Though the house had been built, the real work was only half finished. Throughout the year, the students in the two Occupational Interior Design classes learned a lot about the art of creating and coordinating the interior aspects of rooms. All the studying and planning done by the class culminated in the responsibility of designing the interior of the house that Granger's house-builders had constructed. To accomplish this task, a group of five people was delegated to each of the rooms in the house. These groups were responsible for choosing the paint, wall-paper, and carpeting for their respective room. It was stated that one of the hardest parts of all the designing was coordinating the colors between rooms.

The dedication and hard work of all these people resulted in the creation of an exquisite home that they can all be proud of.

Stage Crew

Set Design was busy all year designing and creating sets and props for three major productions: the school musical, the school play, and the dance concert.

When time allowed, the students helped out with other group projects - such as assemblies, pep rallies, etc. The class required and application and signature from the instructor.

Students usually took the class for two to three years, as skills were developed through continuing their experience. The class prepared students for job skills, and for university opportunities in this vocation.

Stage Crew was in charge of setting up lighting, sound, curtains, and stage drops concerning everything that went on in the auditorium. If anyone needed a microphone on the stage or in the gym, stage crew was there to set it up. The sound system in the football stadium was also maintained by the stage crew.

Winning Combinations

Sports are one area in which Granger, as a whole, has always excelled. A great number of students participated in the sporting events, either playing in the teams or supporting them. Each team did differently in its scoring, but each was important in their contributions to the school.

All of the football teams did very well, with the varsity team landing a spot in the state play-offs.

The girls volleyball teams had one of their best years ever. They also went to the state play-offs and did very well there.

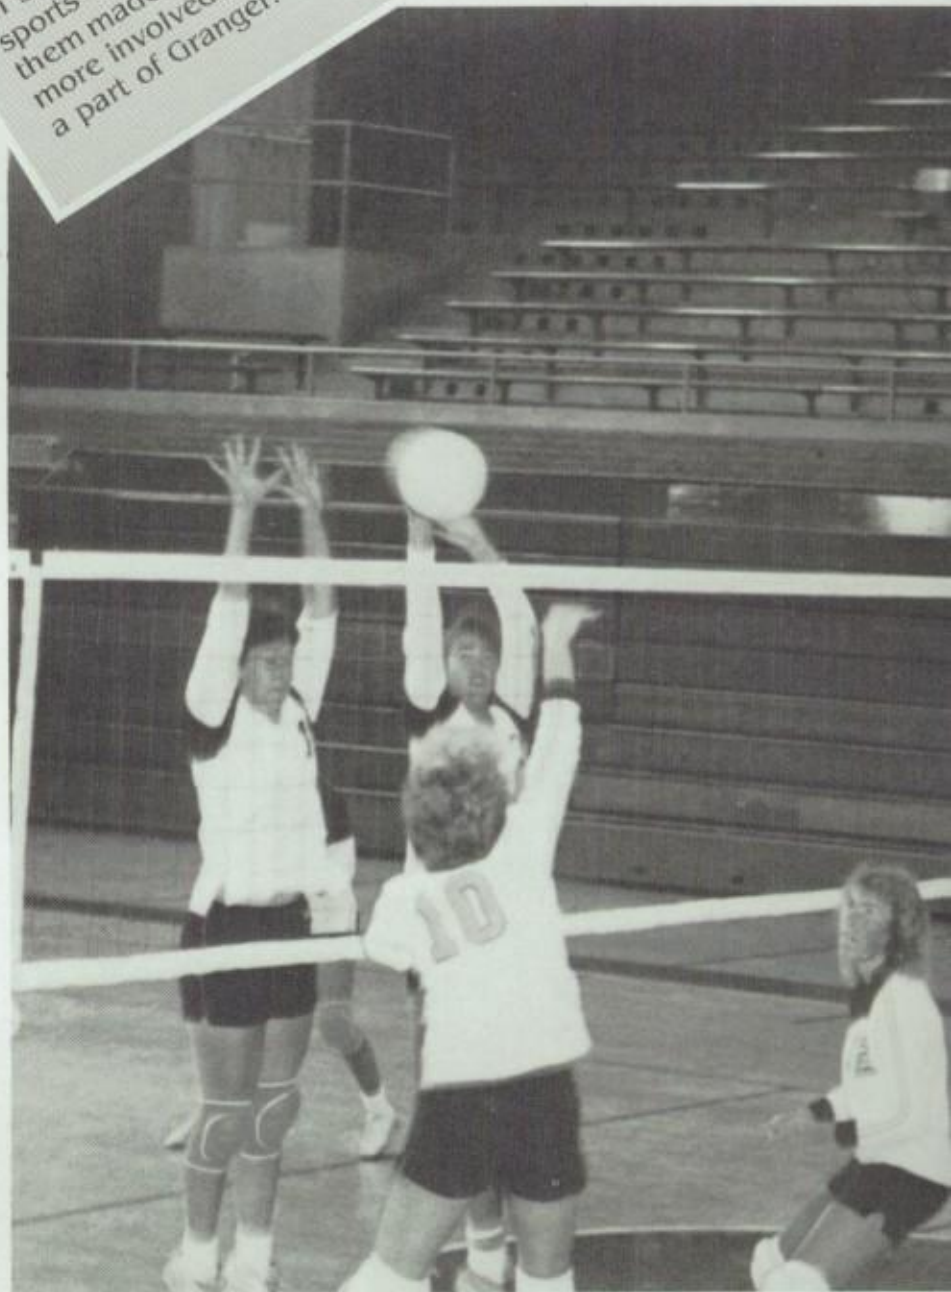

The wrestling team, as usual, excelled beyond compare, and most of the Varsity wrestlers were ranked highly in the State Tournament.

Granger's golf team succeeded in winning several individual contests and did a good job in all of the tournaments.

The Basketball teams, the Soccer team, tennis, swim and baseball were also important school sports.

All of Granger's teams played an important part in student life. Watching sports as well as playing them made everyone feel more involved and more a part of Granger.

GOLF

Travis Talbot: I really had a good time. I learned a lot about golf and sportsmanship.

Chris Searle: It's very competitive and we meet lots of neat people.

The golf team had a very outstanding year. They excelled in many tournaments throughout the season. During the season several honors were awarded. Rick Kocherhans received Granger's most valuable golfer. The most outstanding sophomore was Travis Downie. And Cody Beagly was the most improved player.

the season by qualifying to represent Granger at the state tournament, where he did a wonderful job displaying his golf playing talent.

The golf team began practicing at the beginning of the school year, which paid off when they participated in the different tournaments.

Granger was proud of the golf team and the way they represented our school.

The victory over Kearns insured a place for Granger in the State Play-offs.

What does sixty of Utah's finest male athletes, a 1986 State Quarter Finalist title, no home field at the start of the year, and five of the best coaches have in common? Granger High's Varsity football team! This year's team will for a long time be remembered for their talent, style, and determination.

Minus a homefield, their pre-season game was played at Granite against Woodscross. The game was everything they could have wanted in an opener. The offense executed well, the linemen got off the ball quickly, and the defense only gave up 48 yards. The team brought home their first victory with a score of 39-7.

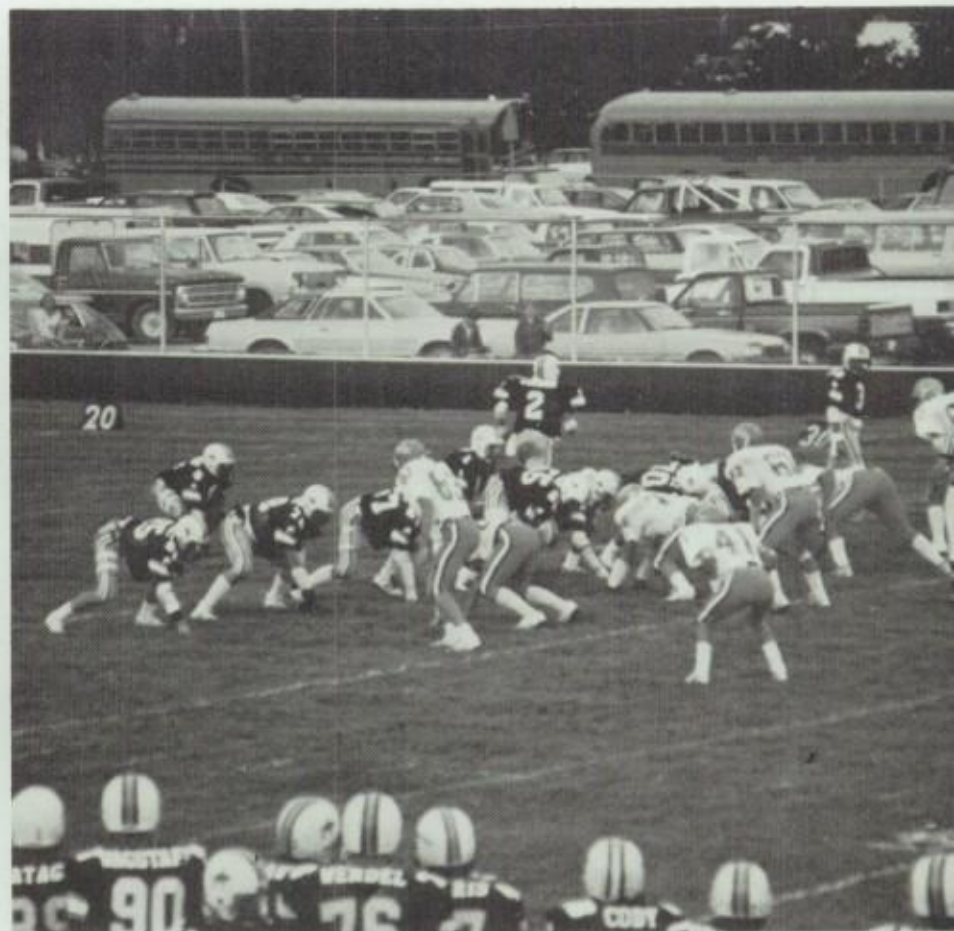

The next game was again a home game for the team but again played at Granite against Granite. The defensive line was at their best causing a complete shut out 40-0. Then the Lancers having an off night lost to Skyline 0-14. But they came back the next week to defeat Taylorsville for Homecoming 27-24.

And so the season went. With the turf in sight, the Lancers defeated Olympus 14-7, Kearns 12-0, Cottonwood 31-23, and only losing to Cyprus by a score of 6-7.

Participating in State Playoffs became a reality with the first game on the road against Box Elder, the team proved exactly who was best with a final score of 21-0. Their next game was against Highland where the biggest thing to defeat them was the snow.

The Varsity football team earned the title of State Quarter Finalists for their 7-3 season.

points a game. John Wendel and Kevin Hall were outstanding on the offensive line. Travis Langpap, Darren Morris, Dave Ujhely, and Kelly Dawes made the passing game successful with exciting catches. The running backs, Chris Smeding and Wayne Hertel ran hard.

The defense was awesome. They were led by captain, and middle linebacker, Glen Thorne. They held their opponents scoreless for 29 of the 32 quarters during the year, only allowing 3 touchdowns. The line was anchored by Jamie Gull and Ken Kenner. The linebackers (the heart of the defense) caused numerous turnovers and dominated the game by aggressive tackling. Along with Thorne, the backers were Jonas Hamlin, Jeff Holder, and Craig Jensen. Travis Langpap, Teal Brown, Doug Cook, and Dave Kaili contained the passing game with interceptions.

The Junior Varsity team finished its season with an impressive 7-1 record and helped prepare the Varsity team for victories that led to the state tournament. The offensive captain, Lance Short, the quarterback, led the Lancers to 20

Determination, hard work, and sacrifice were some of the key terms that Granger's sophomore football team will always remember. They came out of the season with a cumulative record of 5-3. The coaching staff consisted of Gil Cordova, Roger Ketchum, and Mike Flitton. They helped break in the new recruits and taught them how to play together as a team.

As team captains Todd Johnson lead the offense as he played quarterback, and Bill Loveland lead the defense playing both line-baker and fullback.

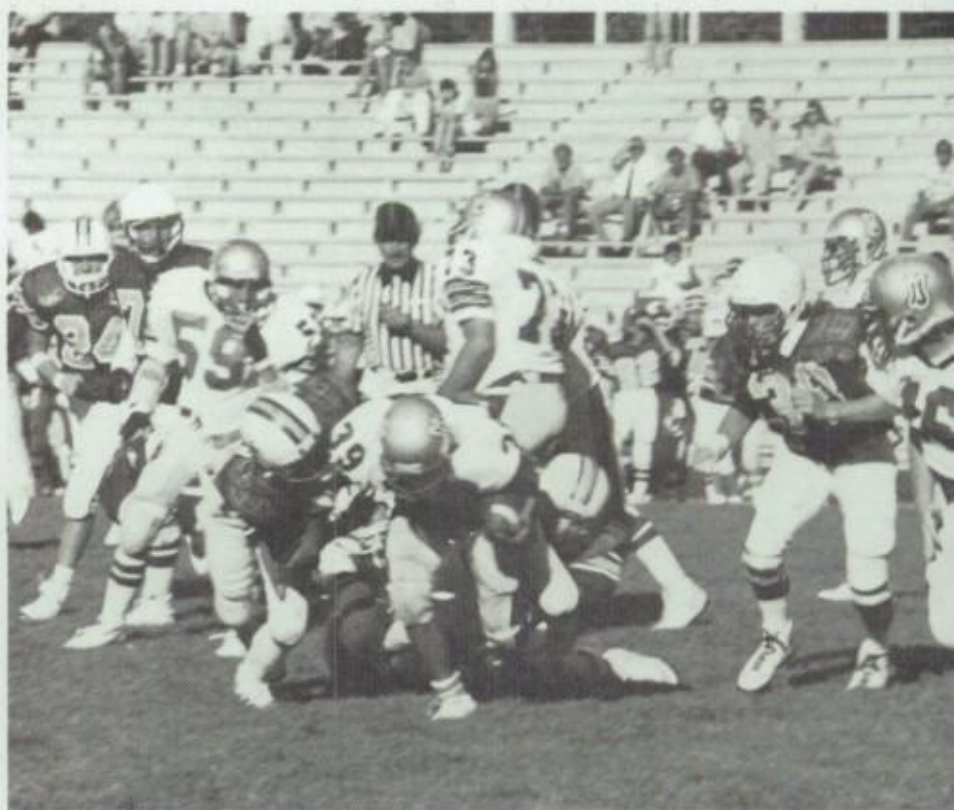

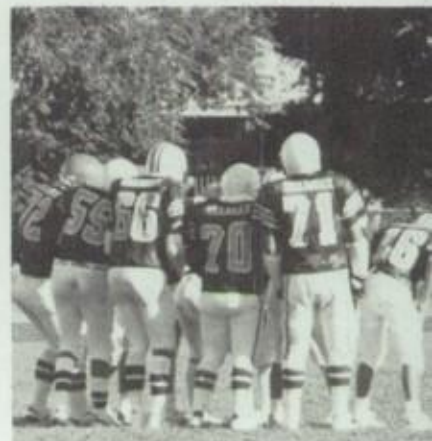

Three of the eight games were shut-outs. Our defense, held the opponents to only 48 points all season, while our offense came out of the season with cumulative scored adding to 112.

Some of the games had more tension than others. For example in the Taylorsville game, we were not assured of our win, but our team came through again. We beat them by stopping their two-point conversion in the final seconds, winning 7-6.

Granger was very proud of its sophomore football team.

Lady Lancer Volleyball made history for the schools first time. They tied for the Region III championship along with Olympus. They also compiled an over-all record better than any others since volleyball started at Granger in 1974. Three co-captain seniors led the team, Kendall Pasborg, Cindy Tuaone, and Annette Wilding. The team won because of team play, good hustle, and a lot of guts.

Annette Wilding spikes the ball as April Bennett, and Heidi Killpack look on. The team had to win 14 games to make it to State playoffs.

WRESTLING

The wrestling team has been an exciting team to watch. They have broken and set two school records. This team was the only team in Granger's history to shut out two teams. They stomped over Olympus sixty-five to zero and Cyprus fifty-four to zero. Dave Marsh, one of the teams outstanding wrestlers, has set a new school record by winning sixty-two straight matches.

The team finished the season with a ten win and two loss record. They took second place in the Layton tournament, second place in the Granite District tournament, first in the U of U Alumni tournament, second place in the Jordan tournament, first in the Regionals, and fourth in the State tournament.

Although the varsity team had an outstanding season, the JV team also had a season they could be proud of. With a record of 9-2, the team represented Granger well.

The hours of preparation spent was not recognized by many people, but it very well should have been. They spent many hours lifting and frequently ran to maintain their weight.

Wrestlers had fun during the season but they were also glad to see it over so they could enjoy the finer things in life, such as chocolate cake and carbonated soft drinks.

Wrestling at 98 Lbs. was Jason Hanson and Mike

The team progressed through excellence and endurance, which was shown through their power and ability at the meets to overthrow the opponents. Sometimes disappointment struck but over all the team stuck with it and had a great season.

The 1987 Lady Lancers dribbled their way through a terrific season. Key factors to this years team were seniors Traci Olsen and Misty Warenski plus a summer clinic held in June at the University of Utah and a hard working coaching staff.

Practices were long and hard. They practiced every day during seventh period and after school. Holidays were no exception either, but they were striving to be the best.

Exciting moments were expected from the juniors on the team. With Heidi Brooks playing the position of forward and Heidi Killpack and April Bennett filling the guard positions. Sophomore players proved their stuff by earning themselves key positions as well as earning points on the team.

The team's work was appreciated and the pride they brought will never be forgotten.

Granger High's Varsity Basketball team consisted of only two seniors. Being a younger team than all of their rivals, they put forth highly competitive games. Their coach was Ed Gray, and he was a proud and determined man who was good at jogging and ran several miles a day. He got his team in very good shape so that they played as well as possible.

As a varsity team, they showed everyone how a team should play and get along together.

The J.V. teams ability to work together was shown by their successful games.

From a sluggish 1 and 5 pre-season start, the 1986-'87 J.V. Basketball team finished region play with an outstanding 11 and 3 record; coming out victorious against every team in the region at least once, and more often twice. A positive attitude, a lot of hard work (in the classroom as well as on the court), confidence in their own abilities, and a strong desire to excell, produced a winning season for this team. With continuing hard work and a desire to be #1, this group of athletes has a promising future in store.

What had 26 long legs, 26 flying arms, and was ten and four in region? Why the Sophomore Boys Basketball Team, of course!

Many people expected 'jocks' to be rude and stupid; however this was an outstanding group of boys who shattered the stereotype by being very well-mannered. Basketball doesn't effect their school work at all. The team carried a grade point average of 3.3 for the year. "Our Sophomore team is academically strong. If they can't perform in the classroom, they can't perform on the court," Coach Gonzales said.

Playing Sophomore basketball formed the foundation for the players' Junior and Varsity years. "These boys are a credit to their parents. It's a privilege to work with them," Coach Gonzales concluded.

Girls Gymnastics

Dancing across a narrow beam, swinging back and forth between two uneven bars or doing a floor routine may have looked easy to an audience; but, for the girls gymnastics team to perform any of their routines took many hours of practice.

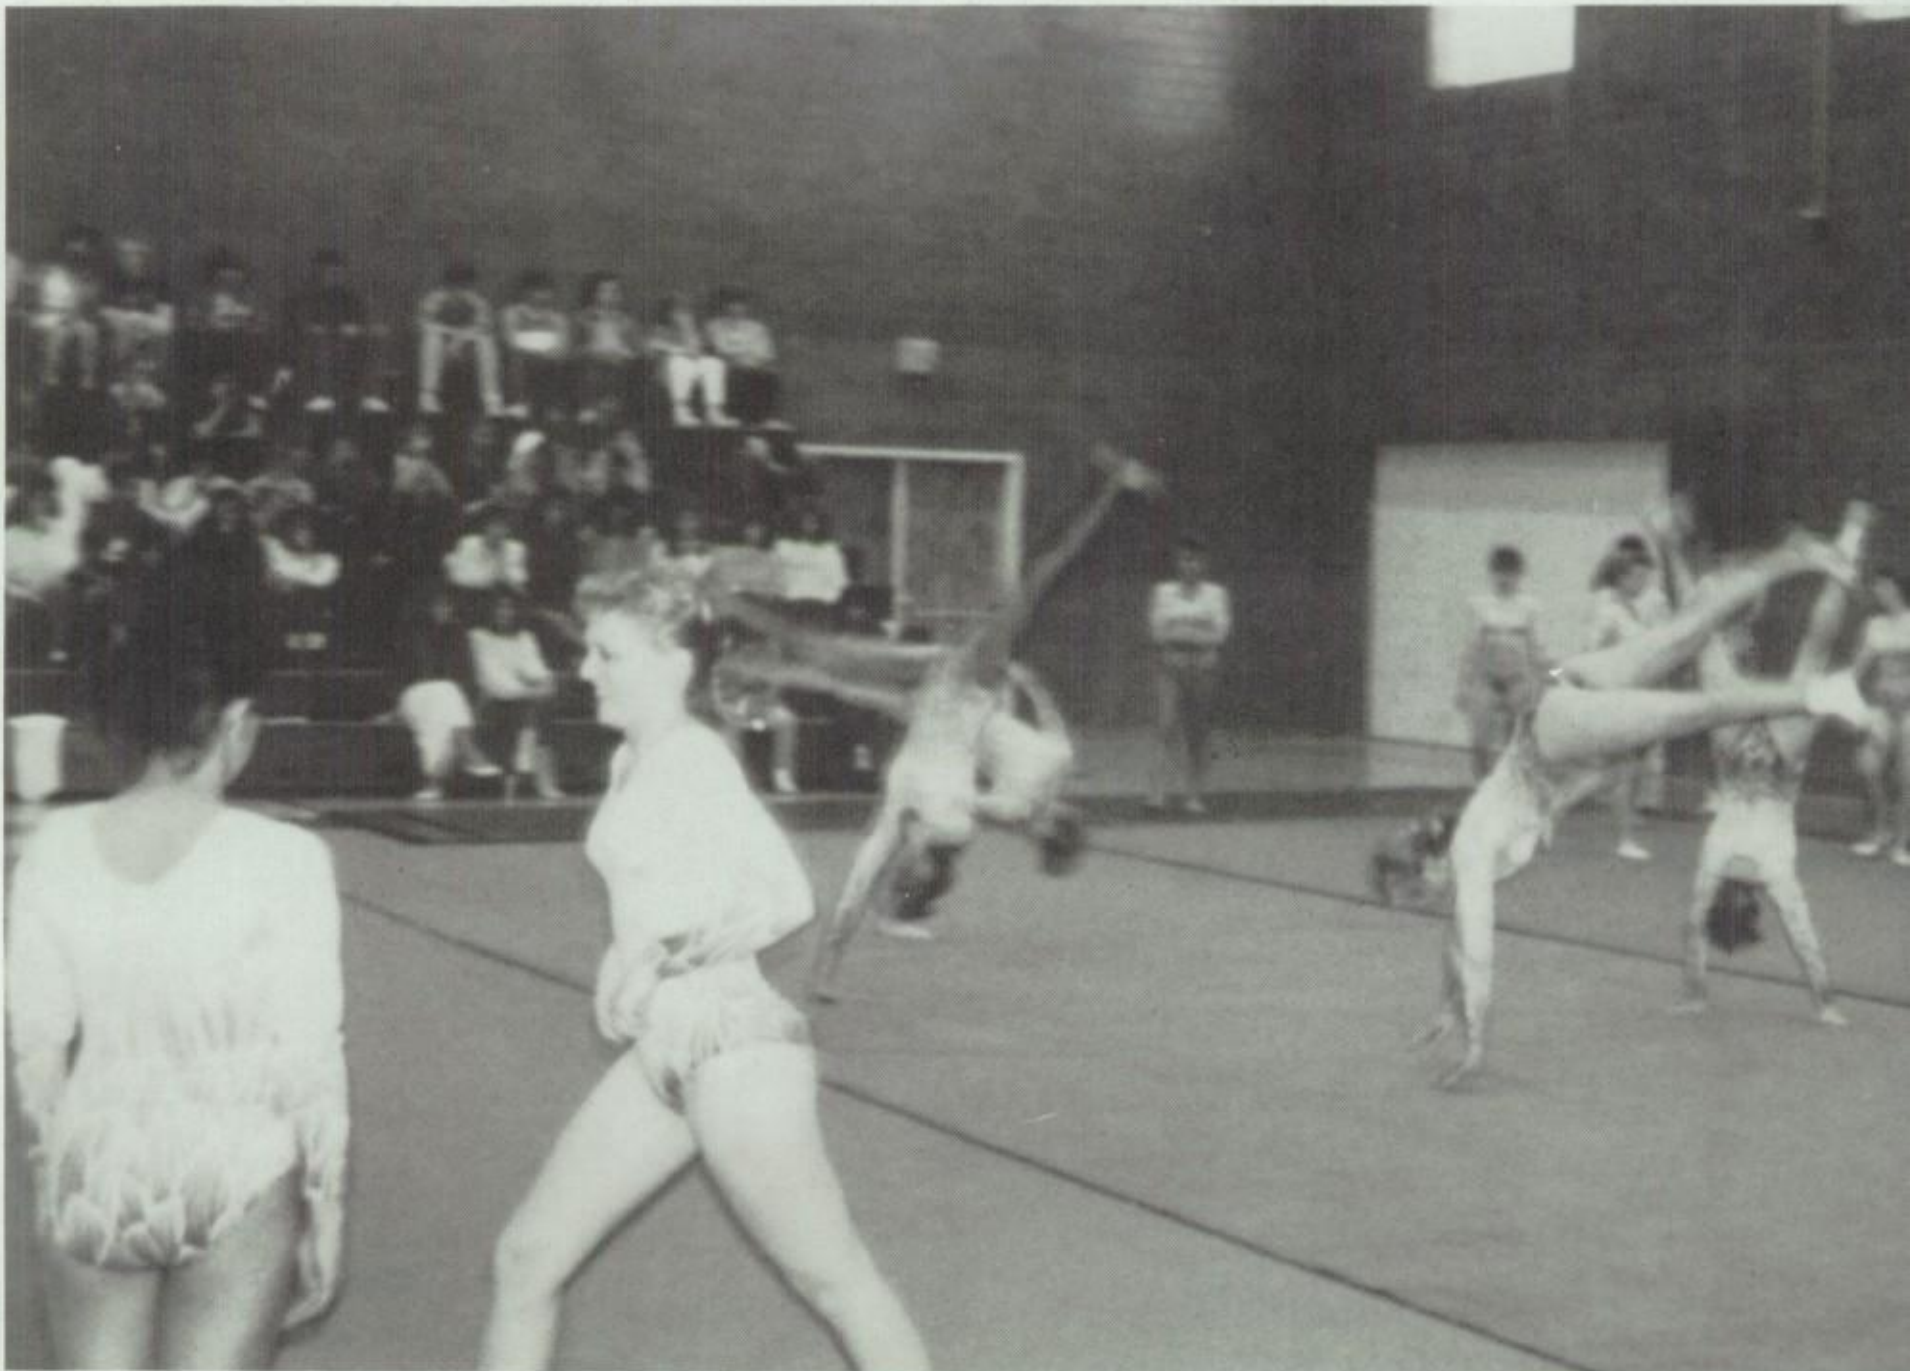

Before every meet, a prayer and pep talk was said. This would get the team in a hyper mood for the meet. Since November of 1986, the team practiced every morning at 6:00 a.m. All their practices would pay off at their meets and their performances would keep the audiences on the edge of their seats.

The team really enjoyed each other's company and would help one another prepare an individual routine which was performed in front of a group of selected judges at every meet.

Hard work, practice and preparing for upcoming meets wasn't all the team did together. There were many parties at which time the team members could relax, have fun, enjoy themselves and have a few hours to forget about an upcoming meet.

Many times, on the day of a meet, the team would go out to breakfast and prepare mentally for the meet.

The 1986-87 team captain was Jennifer Caputo and her Co-Captains were Syndee Kranwinkle, Sheri Jacobson, and Kathy Mier.

The team members show off their skills in a tumbling routine, leaving with smiles after their successful performance.

BOYS GYMNASTICS

Granger's Boys Gymnastics Team consisted of twelve talented and dedicated guys. This team was the first boys gymnastic team in about four years at Granger High. Rhondalee Anderson, their advisor, said, "They were fun to watch and work with." There was a ton of raw talent and desire to succeed within the group. Altogether, the team competed in five meets and performed in some assemblies and at half time with the girls team. We were very lucky to have so many talented gymnasts in one school.

Swim

Granger Highs Swim team worked very hard in representing the school. The team, which was not very large considering the number of students enrolled at the school, consisted of 8 seniors, 11 juniors, and 5 sophomores - 18 of them boys and 6 girls.

Having practices twice-a-day really payed off. Swimmers needed to develop requisite skills and confidence in order to become champions. Our team met these qualifications when it came to competing. In the State Meet Julie Collard placed 7th, Mike Schaelling-5th, and Craig Jensen-9th in the 200 Freestyle. In the 50 Freestyle Pat Atencio placed 13th and Mike Schaelling placed 5th in the 100 butterfly. In the 200 Individual Medley, Keith Ayers placed 14th. In the record meets the scores for the men were 7 wins and 3 loses, for the women it was 2 wins and 8 loses. In the District meet they took 3rd and 5th and in the Region meet 4th and 5th. In the state meet the team placed 7th and 11th.

Everyone could tell who the members on the swim, because they were found in the halls with very little hair, or none at all. The fact was that with th less hair, the faster one could swim. In the meets every second counted, and this seemed to help when it came to winning.

"The swim team was a very dedicated group of individuals that worked hard for what they earned," commented Coach Rolan. Over all the Swim Team put all they had in representing the school. With Julie Collard, Steve Clement and Craig Jensen, leading them through, as team captains.

Sexcaliburs

Granger's water polo team is coached by Tom Taylor. The season started right after state finals in swimming and lasted almost to the end of the school year.

The team practices every day after school for a good workout.

While in the water, students learn to swim and play basketball. It's a fun and enjoyable game to play and also to watch.

Water polo starts in early spring and ends in late spring.

The Sexcaliburs had two fantastic performances. First performing at our Spirit Week Assembly dressed in tight tanks and towels wrapped snuffly around their bodies, they marched out on the floor. The fans began to cheer as they ripped off their towels showing their colorful shorts. Second, they performed at halftime at our Varsity Basketball game against Cottonwood.

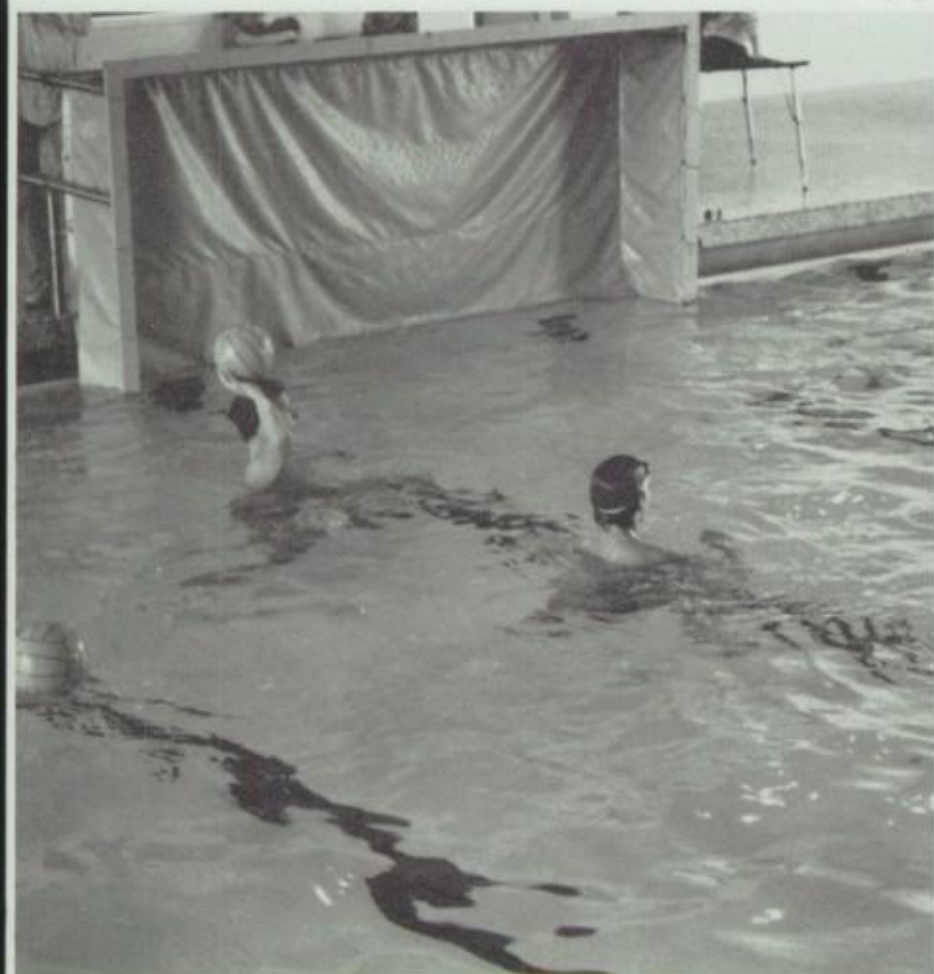

The members of the Sexcaliburs were; Scott Bagshaw, Dale Braunersrither, Trevor Collings, Russel Coon, Darren Cox, Scott Crookston, Lynn Davis, Matt Gibbons Robert Haley, Glen Harline, Kyle Holden, Sean Lazenby, Jason Mecham, Scott Morton, Bill Phillips, Rod Soreson, Rendy Sprague, Travis Talbot, Byron Tate, Craig Turner.

As the Sexcaliburs strutted flirtatiously across the floor they involved their audience.

The Sexcaliburs really showed their ability to move and jump into action as they performed in the Spirit Week Assembly.

The team practices for an up coming game. They worked hard and had a good season.

When Byron Tate was asked why he enjoyed playing tennis, his comment was, "I play tennis because it's a sport that you can always play throughout your life, and anyone can do it."

Then the Shield Staff asked him why he decided to get involved in tennis and he said, "I got involved because a friend got me involved. It's a lot of work, and I put a lot of time in after school . . . it's different playing in the wind."

The Boy's Tennis season was in the Spring, so practices were played through the windy months of March and April.

The Girl's Tennis team plays in the Fall. They practiced after school. Their season lasted about six weeks.

Track

"Teamwork made the track season success-

James Workman -
"Dedication and dicipline has made us better people."

The Cross Country team was headed by Coach Tiffany with Tony Lowe as Captain. The team was the largest that Granger High has ever befor had; it consisted of 23 members, 17 guys and 6 girls.

The courses that the team ran were anywhere from 2.9 to 3.5 miles long. Surfaces included gravel, dirt, pavement, roads, hills, and grass. In order to complete a race the runner would have to have a great deal of indurance and determination.

There were many promising runners on the team, and they represented Granger well. In the Region Track Meet, our J.V. guys placed third overall. The whole team deserved a pat on the back for the hard work they all put into representing Granger High. They did a great job.

Our girl's track team went into the season as defending Region Champs (last year the team took region by 48 points). Some new talents were gained and some old talents were lost, but the team was good and ready to go.

The guy's team, which took second in Region last year was also ready to go. From the start of the Season, it was obvious that G.H.S. had exceptional talent, and a lot of determination.

Both teams had two pre-season meets that were held at Granger. These were followed closely by five regular season meets. Granger also competed in four invitational meets, a relay carinval, and the region meet held on May 14.

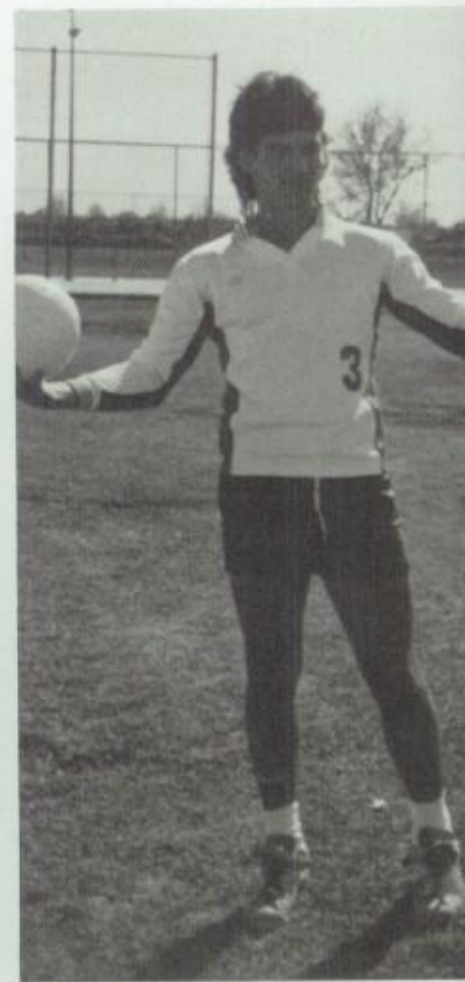

The seasoned Senior and Junior runners pulled through while our Sophomore team members gave a lot of hope for the future.

J.V. Cross Country team members ran diligently against other competing schools. They put a lot of effort into all their meets.

Soccer

Soccer

With the first signs of spring, the soccer team began exercising. On the first week of March tryouts were held. Even though the weather outside did not always cooperate, the team showed its determination and did what it had to do. The soccer team seemed to agree that improvements had been made this year. Mr. Bullock, the team coach was quoted saying, "Even though we are a young team we should have the best team yet at Granger. I am also looking forward to possibly going to state for the first time." The Varsity captains were Rob Seals, Robb Mulford, and Darrin Morris. The starting varsity team was: forwards-Darin Morris, Brian Hardy, Shane Nordfelt, midfield-Danny Simmons, Robb Mulford, Troy Orton, Full backs-Stephen Williams, Mike Harris, Rob Seals, Jimmy Brinkerhoff, goalie-Rick Wilson.

Baseball

Granger High's baseball team batted its way to the top in the 1986-87 season. Tryouts were held in early March. The team agreed that it had a great season ahead since many of the previous team members were returning. The team coaches were Mike Folster and Kevin Christiansen. A comment given was, "Granger has always had one of the best hitting teams because of the dedication of Coach Folster making the teams hard work always noticable." The first and second string players were the following: Pitcher-Kelly Peterson, catcher-Richie Fratto, r. field-Trevor Sugden, l. field-Anthony Bench, short stop-Jonas Hamlin, Tracy Greenwood, center field-Steve Embley. 1st baseman-Mike Harmon, Richard Hickman, 2nd baseman-Scott Dalton, 3rd baseman-Jake Shewmake, Travis Langpap and Jerry Schlappi also did a lot of playing.

VARSITY SONGLEADERS

The Varsity Songleaders of the 1986-'87 school year helped to build the school spirit by thier enthusiastic attituddes. Their enthusiasm was shown by the support they gave to all of the teams here at Granger High.

The Songleaders performed many dances at the football and basketball halftimes for the crowds' entertainment. The Regional Cheerleading Competition was held on Saturday, November 14th. The Varsity Songleaders and Cheerleaders placed third. This gave them an invitation to compete in the National Competition in Orlando, Florida.

"The Songleaders had many exciting memories during their years at Granger High. They would like to thank the student body for their support." said Debbie Hammer.

Throughout the year, the Granger High School Songleaders were always ready to support and cheer on the school activities. The Varsity Songleaders, as the year progressed, seemed as if their abilities exceeded the songleaders in the years before them. And as Doug Williams stated, "Our Songleaders are gorgeous."

Early morning practices paid off as another good performance goes well at a GHS basketball game.

At one of Granger's assemblies, Holly Gregg, along with the rest of the Song and Cheerleaders led students in the school song.

The varsity cheerleaders of 1986-87 have made many great accomplishments.

They learned to work together as a team which was very important because they spent so much time practicing and cheering at the games trying to uplift the school spirit.

Through early morning practices and a lot of hard work, they had an opportunity to represent Granger in the National Competition in Orlando Florida.

Kara Jackson was this years head cheerleader. She did a very good job in leading the varsity squad. Brandi Bolton, Sharmaine Gessel, Keri Reiter, Kim Hatch, and Becca McDowell were also members of the squad.

They participated throughout the year with the songleaders at football and basketball games and they performed in assemblies. Usually at halftime they would do routines that they worked on in early morning practices.

They were very devoted to cheerleading and would do their best to represent Granger High.

The cheerleaders had many great memories and became very good friends with each other during their years at Granger High.

JR. VARSITY CHEERLEADERS

The Junior Varsity Cheerleaders worked hard to look their best while cheering for Granger High School. While at camp they learned many cheers and routines in order to make the teams they cheered for look good. Not only did they cheer for teams, but they supported them and also other organizations by making banners and signs for them and hanging them in the halls for everyone to see.

Not only did the J.V. Cheerleaders cheer for the school and support the studentbody, but they competed in a cheerleading competition. The competition was on Saturday, November 14th. They took first place. This gave them an invitation to compete in the National Competition in Orlando Florida.

To make sure that they did their best while cheering for Granger, the J.V. Cheerleaders were up early in the morning. They were at the school at 6:00 am to practice cheers, jumps, and chants. The J.V. Cheerleaders were great at promoting school spirit, and were always around to lend a helping hand.

At a wrestling match some of the J.V. Cheerleaders show their friendship. They also show their school spirit by cheering for the wrestling team.

CHEERLEADERS / SIR LANCER

Soph. Cheer.

In April of 1986, six girls received the title of Sophomore Cheerleaders. They attended the USA Cheerleader's camp, held at Utah State University and brought home the only Superior trophy given to a sophomore squad at camp.

The Sophomore Cheerleaders cheered at all of the sophomore games, decorated the halls to raise school spirit, and participated in assemblies. At 6 am, the Sophomore Cheerleaders practiced to make themselves the best they could be. Their dedication really paid off when they were awarded first place at the High School Cheerleading Championships. This gave them the opportunity to compete at the National Cheerleading Championships held in Florida. Jennifer Johnston stated "I really don't think that we would've done this well if we didn't have such a great advisor pushing us all the time like Martha did."

Sir Lancer

Being Sir Lancer was a lot harder than anyone thought it would be. The cheerleaders worked really hard to support our teams. They spent many hours learning new routines, cheers, and even making posters. All of this, plus pep assemblies, spirit week, and the National Cheerleading Competition in Florida, kept everyone busy all year round.

This was the first year that Sir Lancer had ever been involved with the competition. "Boy, it's a lot of work!" said Craig Blackham. "Being the only boy around a giant group of girls isn't all it's cracked up to be, but I wouldn't trade it for anything in the whole world. Well...almost anything. I really appreciate this opportunity I have been given. To be Sir Lancer is the best decision I could have made through out my high school years." Craig added.

EXCALIBURS

Take seven seniors, eight juniors, and five sophomores who are all exceptional. Put them all together and one has the makings of the Granger High Excaliburs.

Try-outs were held at the end of last year's fourth term and from then until the year ended they were pushed to the limit. They competed at the USA Spirit Camp during the summer and received all Superior Ratings plus the Friendship Stick. This was the first time Granger has ever received the Friendship Stick.

The Cyprus Invitational was successful for the drill team. Not only did they compete in the finals, but, they also placed fourth for their military routine.

Region and State Competitions went smoothly. "When it comes right down to it, all of the practicing, all of the work ... pays off when we know a crowd loves us."

Mindy Paskins was the advisor this year. Coming straight from the Aggiettes at Utah State University, Paskins rubbed that old "Aggie style" off on the team.

The officers were Wendy Zundel who served as President. Pam Herbert as second vice-president, Angi Brewer as first vice-president, Nikki Benson as secretary, Alaina Barney as treasure, Michelle Meyer as publicity and Lori LeBaron as historian.

Excaliburs practice for the coming competition. They spent many hours before and after school practicing.

At a halftime show, the Excaliburs display their flexibility. The Excaliburs performed their routines at all of the home games.

Unlike other sports, hockey is very intense. Players cannot let their guard down for one moment.

Opponents goalies seldom get lucky and stop Granger from getting the puck in the back of the net.

Hockey, not being a school supported sport, wore thier practice jerseies during early season games.

While playing games at places such as Hygeia, Cottonwood Heights, and the Salt Palace, our hockey team went on to one of its best seasons ever.

Participants of the team were not eligible to earn letterman jackets, because hockey was not a school supported sport, but, with its increasing popularity it wont be long before it is.

Hockey, one of the most rapidly growing sports, was on the minds of many students. Granger combined with Cottonwood, Skyline, and Woodscross to make up the team known as Valley South.

Granger students made up the majority of the team. Team members were Dean Anderson, Troy Layton, Josh Cavanne, Chris Franks, Thomas Jaeckle, Keith Layton, Jody McDonald, Justin Mills, and Matt Ziska.

The team was undefeated through five games and was ranked first in the 2A divi-

All For Fun

Come and join us

At some time during a student's high school years, they participated in activities. Whether they were athletic events, musicals, plays, concerts, or the stumps, everyone was involved in some way or another.

The most popular events seemed to be the football games, Spirit Week, and the dances. These activities allowed the entire studentbody to get involved.

The other athletic events, such as the wrestling meets, girls basketball games, and the gymnastic meets, were less attended but those who did attend were treated to a great time.

Some school activities couldn't be put in the yearbook because of the late time in the year that they occurred. Sadie Hawkins and Senior Ball were two dances that were too late to be in the book.

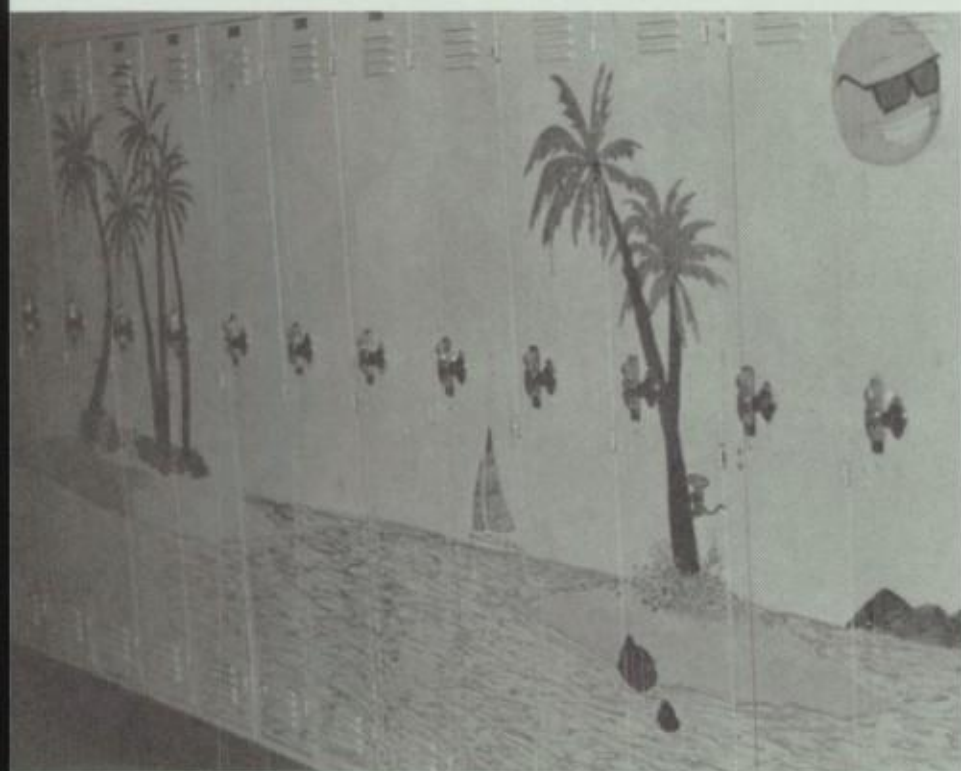

Also, assemblies like the Farewell Assembly could not be put in. One-time activities, such as the fashion show, the musical, and the school play were a great success, and were attended by many students.

To all those who attended activities during the year, thanks a million. To those who didn't, come and join us. The more the merrier.

Going to the musical was one of the favorite activities of the year. Many people went to the performance three nights in a row.

The Fashion Merchandising classes put on Granger's first fashion show. The guys got involved and went surfing in their wild shorts.

The school's talent was displayed by artistic graffiti on the hall lockers. Although the final result was punishment for the artist, the scene brightened the hall and impressed the students.

GRANGER UNITES IN A SUCCESSFUL SPIRIT WEEK

Spirit Week started on Monday, February 16 and lasted through Friday, February 20. There were many different activities held throughout the week that boosted Granger's spirit.

It started out with Occupation Day in which the students came dressed as the occupation of their choosing. Some occupations included doctors, nurses, plumbers, nuns, army officers, and many, many more. Then during both lunches, there was a contest to see who had the best costumes. In first lunch, the Juniors won and in second lunch, the Seniors won.

The next day was surfer day and the students came in shorts, hats, sunglasses, beachtowels and some even brought their own surfboards. That night, to finish off the day, there was a beach party stomp.

Thursday was Birthday day and class call. They had Birthday Cake during lunch and played games which included pin the tail on the donkey and guessing how many balloons were in the display case, which the Juniors won. That night was class call and the Seniors whizzed by everyone to become victorious in the contest.

On the final day of Spirit week was the Spirit Assembly. All classes competed to see who had the most spirit. The cheerleaders, S.B.O.'s, Class Officers, and some of the student body from each class performed many various skits dedicated to each of the classes. One of the highlights of the Assembly were the Sexcaliburs. They made their debut to start off the assembly.

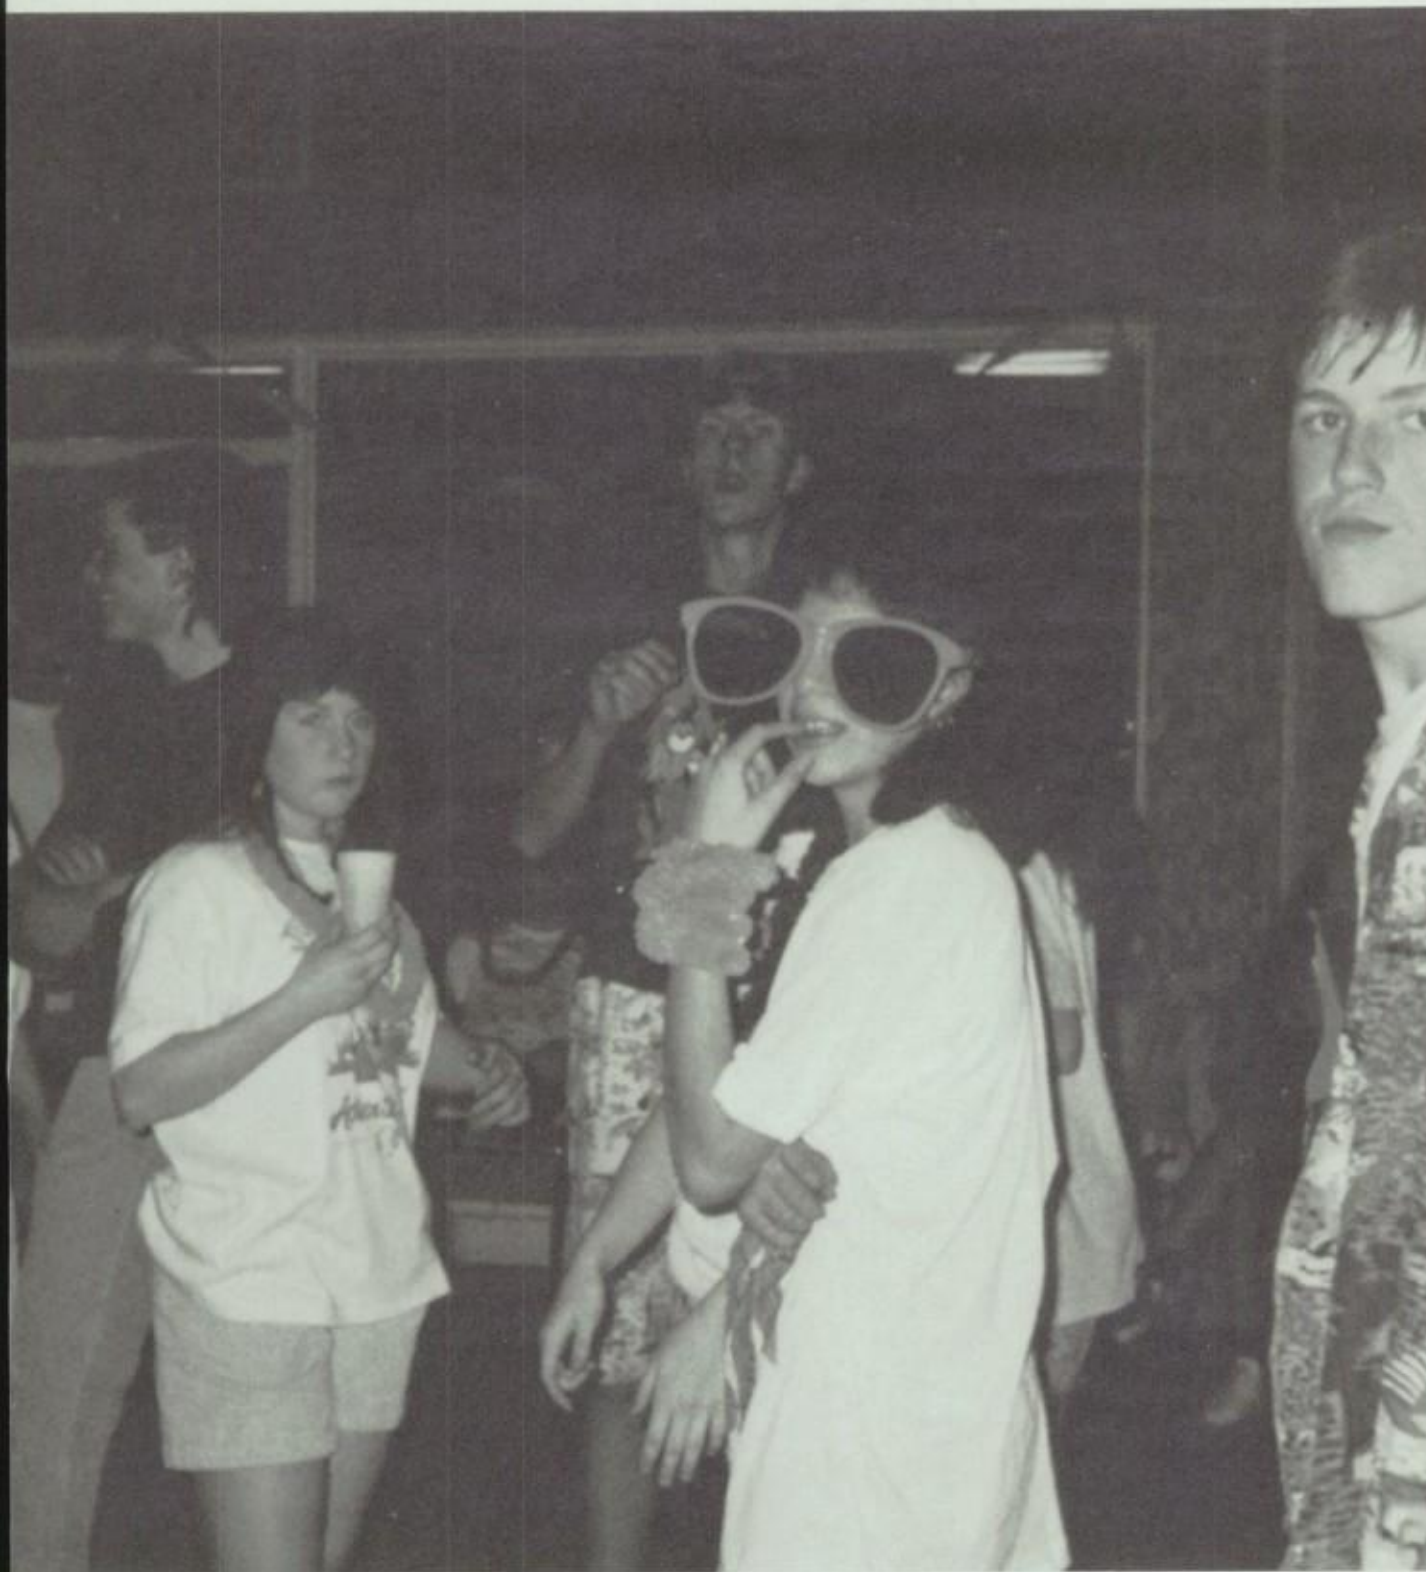

When the votes were tallied up, by some mysterious unknown factor, the Class of 88 had won. For a split second there was a moment of silence because everyone was shocked that the Juniors had won, but then the Juniors responded in their triumph. Many were very happy and others disappointed, but after the assembly, everyone realized that Granger had the best spirit as a whole school united.

FOREVER LANCERS

During the week of September 15-19, 1986, the Granger Lancers demonstrated their spirit by participating in many school activities.

Finalists for the Homecoming Queen were announced on Tuesday night at the Queen's Tea which was held in Granger's library.

Senior day was Wednesday. Students were asked to wear their favorite college or university sweat-shirts. Other activities which encouraged competition between school organizations were the decoration of halls and shields.

The Homecoming Parade was also held on Wednesday. Many students belonging to clubs and organizations paraded down Lancer Way in decorated floats, waving to and throwing candy at the crowd.

The most exciting day of the week was Friday. The Homecoming Assembly started the activities. It was announced that Debbie Hammer was Homecoming Queen and she knighted Craig Blackham as Sir Lancer. Also included in the assembly were skits performed by various club members, the traditional class call by the cheerleaders, and the song "Remember" sung by past and present Madrigals.

The football game was held after school against Taylorsville. Granger was victorious in the game with the final score of 27-24.

The most exciting part of the day was at 8:00 p.m. that night at the Homecoming Dance held in the Stonehenge. The dance provided a time for students, past and present, to be "Forever Lancers."

Four wheelin' entrepreneurs get a taste of the good life. DECA members were able to compete in District and State competitions.

Slow dancing brought couples at Harvest Ball closer together. New friendships and loves blossomed.

Lancers In Heaven

Couples enjoyed dancing the night away to the music of 'Portrait' in the Stonehenge at the Harvest Ball Dance on November 14, 1986.

This year Harvest Ball was held at the Stonehenge on November 14, from 8:00 to 11:00. The theme of the dance was "Lancers in Heaven," and the theme song was "Heaven in Your Eyes."

Harvest Ball was the first girl's preference dance of the 1986-87 school year. The arrangements for the dance were made by the Sophomore Class Officers. They arranged the decorations, the music, and all the other details that go into putting a dance together.

The royalty of the night were as follows: Page, Tyler Wilder; Squire, Ricky Silva; and King, Scott Christiansen. These people were voted into royalty by the females in their grade.

The students danced to the music of the band Portrait. When not dancing, couples could be found either eating refreshments which were provided by the Occupational Food Classes, or getting their pictures taken with photographer, Scott Adams.

The band, Portrait, prepared to perform at the Harvest Ball dance. They played an array of slow and fast tunes.

JUNIOR PROM

"LOVE IS FOREVER"

The 1986-87 Junior Prom was held at Jordanell Reception Center. Portrait was the band that played at the dance. The Junior class officers which are, Rick Wilson, Daren Cox, Kim Jacobs, Lisa Whitlock, and Susan Rappleye hosted the dance. They held a junior class vote to determine the royalty, which is as follows; Prince- Steve Faber, Queen- Tera Isom, 1st Attendant- Kim Jacobs, Knight- Lance Short, 2nd Attendant- Jerry Gibbens, and the Page- Teal Brown.

The night was a big success. All of the students attending were dressed formally for the occasion. The theme of Junior Prom was "Love is Forever". Another wonderful dance was created for the memories of Granger High School students.

Krista Perry, Genevieve Felix, and Chris Torgerson wait for their cue on stage. Besides acting in the play, these three were part of the stage crew.

"Our Hearts Were Young And Gay"

Jennifer Erikson -
"I had a wonderful time while in the play. It was very hard but I loved every minute of it."

Granger students presented the comedy Our Hearts Were Young and Gay on March 13, 16 and 17, 1987.

Brenda Park directed the production and Peggy Carlson and the stage crew handled the sets.

Authored by Cornelia Otis Skinner and Emily Kimbrough, the story told of the adventures of the two girls on their first trip, unchaperoned to Europe.

Cast members included Jennifer Erikson as Cornelia, Jennifer Finlayson as Emily, with Lynn Holden as the steward, Steve Van Valkkenburgh as Otis Skinner, Jason Boat, the purser, and Bonnie Clift as the stewardess.

Clint Lingwall played Dick Winters and Mike Shewmake played Leo. Genevieve Filix was Mrs. Skinner, Jeff Hardenbrook, the Admiral, and LaShaunda Lewis as Harriet St. John. Candace Barnson played Winifred Blaugh, Krista Perry, the Inspector, Heidi Hodges was Therese, and Jodi Alldredge was Madame Elise. Chris Torgerson played the part of Mademoiselle De La Croix, and Danny DeGroot was the window cleaner. The assistant director was LaShaunda Lewis.

Dick Winters (Clint Lingwall) and Emily Kimbrough (Jennifer Finlayson) discuss whether or not the boat would sink. This was just one of the many exciting scenes in the play.

Joseph (Shawn Farnsworth) shows off his coat of many colors to the children of Isarel and the audience.

Before the musical began Krista Perry and Troy Muir put on makeup so they can look spectacular for the performance.

Potipher's wife (Chris Torgeson) showed her affection to Joseph, against her husbands will, while cast members pose as furniture for the house.

Joseph's Technicolor Dreamcoat— An Amazing Musical.

HAVE YOU SEEN THE COAT?

Where's the coat? Who has the coat? What coat? These were some of the questions people asked as they saw the signs advertising Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat.

The musical this year was a big success. There were many good things said about it. David Kaili stated, "It was a great musical and I never saw one like it before." Syndee Kranwinkle also commented, "I like the way the composer mixed modern music and dance music with the bible story." These were only a few of the good comments said towards the musical.

Joseph was played by Shawn Farnsworth and he remarked, "I loved doing the musical and I hope to do it again."

Other leads were Lynn Holden, Stephanie Angelos, Glenna Bryan, and Barbie Tygeson, who were the narrators. There were many other people involved in the cast, such as the brothers, Pharoah, Potipher, the wife of Potipher and the chorus.

The cast members enjoyed being in the musical. Susan DeWaal exclaimed "I am so glad I was in the production this year, I'll miss being in a high school musical after I graduate but, I'll always have the memories." The cast members agreed with Susan and happily remembered Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat, because it was an experience no one would ever forget.

Jacob's sons tell him about Joseph's supposed death. Jacob was played by Wilford Norton.

All In Order Alpha Beta Cally

The year of 1986-87 was a very eventful year full of changes, disasters, and triumphs.

Many changes were, the gasoline wars between competing distributors, the rise and fall of food prices, bus fares, plane tickets and imports of new automobiles.

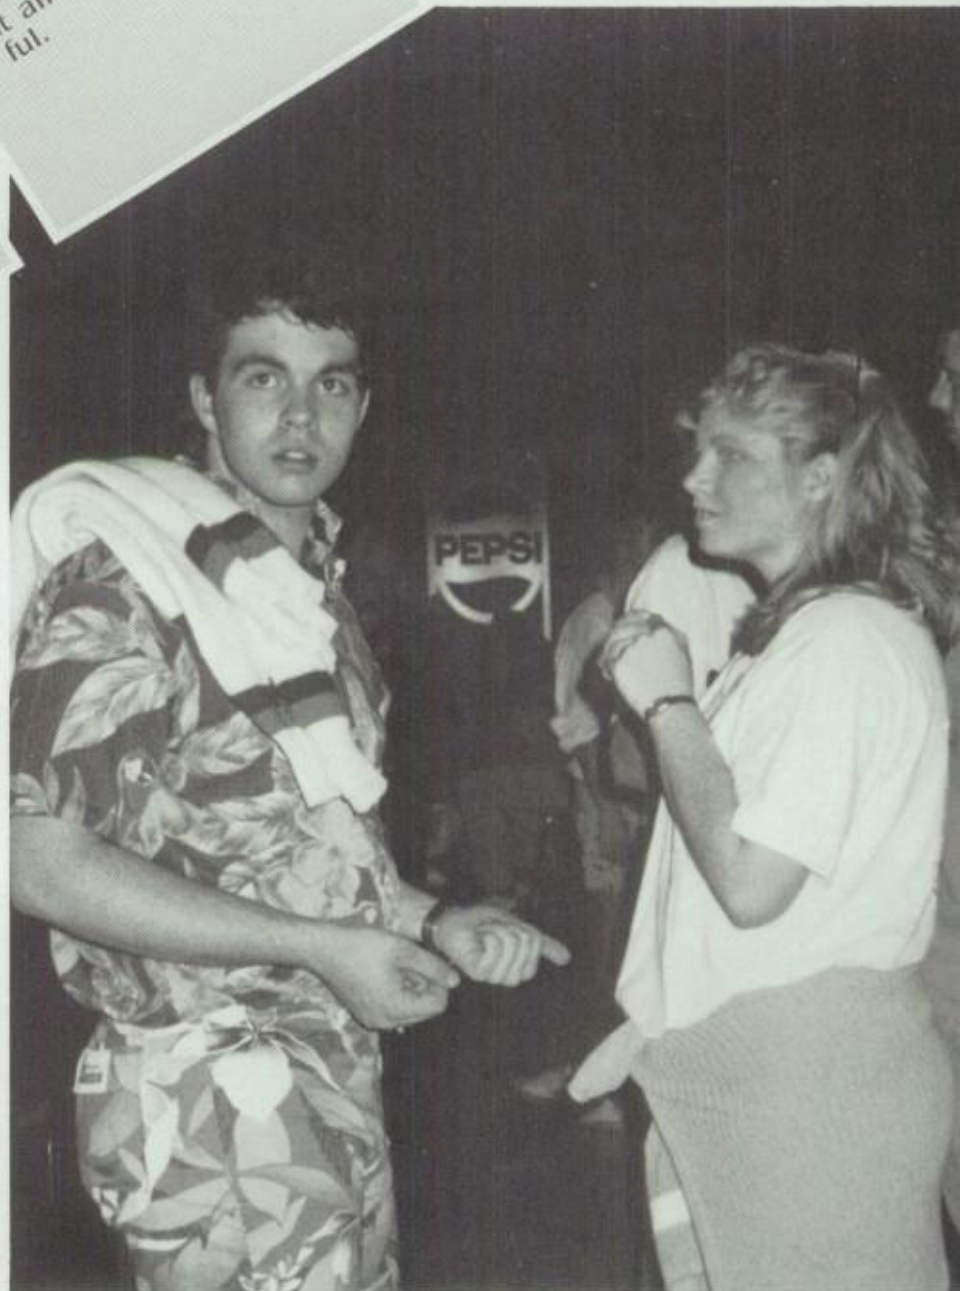

The disasters that occurred were not things we looked forward to, but they always seemed to have happened. Such as the plane crash over Keams, which resulted in several deaths, and brought terror close to home. The explosion of Blair's studio was disastrous, but all seemed to work out well with few injuries and the loss of a fine photography studio, which was soon relocated and was back in business in no time at all.

A few triumphs through the year were the reconstruction of the Valley Fair Mall and when Jake Gam gave a kidney to his daughter.

It was a very busy year with several changes, disasters and triumphs to make it all the more eventful.

Jesse Snow and Debbie Smith try to catch the beat at a beach stomp.

Friends meet outside Burger King showing off their new crowns after a long, hard yearbook deadline.

The crowd intently waits for a touch down. There was little room to sit down and enjoy the game.

1986-1987 HEADLINES

Shield Times

An accident Saturday, January 10, 1987 at Don Blair Photography destroyed the building. The next day, the Blair's had to sift through the debris to retrieve any valuables not destroyed by the fire. Amazingly, Blair's studio was back on it's feet within days, setting up a temporary studio three doors down. The family has served as official photographers for Granger for 25 years. We are grateful for their service, devotion and stamina.

Jake Garn donated a kidney to his daughter, Susan Rhae Garn Home, age 27, who suffered from progressive kidney failure due to a diabetic condition. The kidney transplant took place on September 10, 1986 at Georgetown University Hospital in Washington D.C.

In a tragic disaster on January 29, 1987, two planes crashed into each other over Kearns. Observers were struck with terror as destruction landed near their homes. Neighbors, friends and families helped clean up the mess and Kearns High offered food and shelter to those whose homes were the center of destruction. There were no survivors, but fortunately no one below was hurt.

1986-1987 SPORTS

Shield Times

On January 25, 1987, Super Bowl XXI took place in Pasadena, California. The New York Giants and the Denver Bronco's fought hard to make their way up to the top two teams in the National Football League. John Ellway and Phil Simms lead their teams. But the Giants prevailed with a 17 point win over the Bronco's.

At the first of 1987, Dennis Conners, captain of Stars and Stripes, and his twenty-one teammates won the America's Cup on a wild strip of sea called the Gage Roads off the beaches of desolate Fremantle, Australia. The race was very tight, with the result of a 12-meter victory.

The World Series was hard fought by both the Boston Red Sox and the New York Mets. The Mets won four out of the seven games played between the home cities, to win the 1986 World Series. Businesses and profits grew in the east, to meet the needs of the many fans.

1986-1987 OBITUARIES

Shield Times

Liberace, one of America's best known pianists, died February 4, 1987. He had a life long career beginning piano at the age of four. When Liberace was nineteen he performed his first solo concert. Liberace died at the age of sixty-seven in a California hospital. His music will be remembered for many years.

Archibald Alexander Leach known to us as Cary Grant was born in 1904. At the age of 16 he came to the U.S. for the first time, however it was not until 1931 that he arrived in Hollywood. This man became a screen legend. In December, 1986 the most purely likable man in the history of movies died at 82. He starred in over 70 movies.

Danny Kaye beloved actor, comedian, and Humanitarian, died March 3rd, at age 74 of heart failure. He won many awards including an Honorary Oscar in 1954, four Emmys, a George Foster peabody Award and a Kennedy Center Honoree in 1984. He was most noted for his work with UNICEF, where he won an award in 1981.

Desi Arnaz, better known as Ricky Ricardo, from the show I Love Lucy. He was also the producer of the show and co-starred with his wife Lucille Ball. He died at the age of 69 of Lung Cancer. He will be remembered by all, for his talent and creation for entertaining.

Zade F. Adams

A PART OF US REMAINS WITH HIM

*He came to earth
For a little while,
He came, at first,
As a little child.*

*As time went on
He slowly progressed
And thanks to us
He became his best.*

*With help from his parents
And brothers so dear,
He learned to be strong,
He hadn't a fear.*

*With help from his close friends
And silly classmates,
He learned about life
While laughing on dates.*

*With help from his neighbors
And closest of kin,
He learned how to love
But he kept it all in.*

*Being humble and calm
He went on his way
And each of us wept
On that cold lonely day.*

*Yet to think of him now
Is a comfort and joy,
To know that we helped
In changing that boy.*

*He left us with courage
And also with love,
And the things we all taught him
He uses above.*

*He's so very, very thankful
And now he's watching over you
As we remember him,
be happy ...
And he'll be happy too.*

The Last Lap

We've Reached Our Final Goal

Walking through the doors as a senior into Granger High School, one visualized what the senior year would be like. Would it be a relaxed time or a serious time to try and figure out what to do after graduation.

If graduation entered someone's mind a person got excited or maybe even scared. This was the last year of school, "I'll be on my own soon. What will I do? Get ready world here I come!"

Each of us had different thoughts and ideas about graduation. Becky Olsen stated, "I get butterflies knowing that soon I will be out of school and on my own." Shane Nordfelt said, "I am looking forward to graduation. I want to get out of school." Susan DeWaal also remarked, "I am glad I'm getting out. I'm looking forward to being out on my own." Steve Embley was asked the question, and he replied, "Personally, I would rather skip it".

Graduation Day finally arrived and we received our diplomas. Parents shed tears of joy and students shed tears about leaving friends and teachers, knowing that this was the end.

We all have achieved our goal finishing the last lap and moving on to the real world.

Jesse Snow- I'm looking forward to graduating, but I'm not looking forward to leaving school.

Watch Out World here we come . . . Granger's SBO's wished us good luck with our future ambitions.

So Long Granger . . . Many Seniors had mixed feelings about the year being over with; while others couldn't wait to leave!

Its over forever! Becky Birrell, Janean Hunt, Roger Muir, and Chris Bailey walk out Granger's doors as alumni forever. Graduation was a very emotional time for all seniors.

Madrigals and Alumni singing Remember at the homecoming assembly. Madrigals later sang the traditional Remember at Graduation.

Ginny Harris looks over the golden arches. She was admired for her sense of humor.

Granger Students show off their favorite college sweatshirts. Students start planning for college early by taking the ACT and SAT tests.

Students in college prep prepare for life as College Students. Students took Advanced Placement and other College classes to get an idea of what college work is going to be like.

So Many to Choose From

From the end of the Junior year until the Senior year, Universities and colleges sent students hundreds of letters explaining the wonderful qualities of their particular school.

Choosing a college wasn't the

Teuila Tuaone-"I want to go to BYU and be a designer."

only problem. Taking many tests for college credit, and other tests like the ACT and National Merit helped prepare students for applications and scholarships.

Christy Cole stated, "I'm excited to get away from my family!", but other students were reluctant to go to far from home.

Most Seniors hardly even thought about college until the very last minute, and then those interested in scholarships had to really hurry their papers in order to get accepted.

Whether diving into college, touring Europe and the Middle East, or spending time just hanging around, good luck is wished to all who are following their dreams.

Friends study together and prepare for a day of school. Study habits were a must as we carried them on to college.

Misty Warenski-"Snow College sounds nice because it's far away from home."

Craig Collotzi-"I'm going on a mission."

Jennifer Wendel, Marlo Springer, and Kathy Kellersberger patiently wait for class to begin. The classes we chose as high school students benefited our career choices.

Torrie Culley and Jolynn Bolton talk while at a school stomp. As seniors left their old friends they prepared to make new ones.

Choices To Make

What Do I Want To Be?

I really want to be a Dentist . . .
No! I think I would rather be a Fireman, but do I want to go through all that hard training? I've got it . . . I will be a Rock Singer
. . . No! What do I want to be?

Many students were confused about making their future plans.
College was a big step for many students. Going to college was both fun and scary.

When Jennifer Caputa was asked if she was going to go to college, she replied, "College yah, I will go to a great college to study business and do gymnastics. Then I will try and run my own business".

When Jason Mecham was asked what his future plans were he had it all figured out, "I know, I will go to college for one year. Then go on a mission for two years. I will then come back and go to California to finish school for six years. I will teach school while I finish going to college. People will see my name printed as a teacher "Jason Mecham", I will feel very proud.

When I finish school I will move back to Utah, get married and for sure I will have a Chiropractic clinic that I will own".

It was hard for most students to plan a good future. Many students thought that graduation was the end. It was not the end, it was only the beginning!

A group of students gather around a computer and show interest in the career of electronics. Knowledge of computers was an important aspect of success in technology.

Cheri Palmer an officer for FBLA shows her excitement at the homecoming parade, with being involved with business. Business was one of the main careers that students were planning to major in.

Michelle Wanlass has mixed emotions about the career she wants to get into. Many other students were also undecided about the career they wanted to pursue.

We It Did Together

IT STARTED OFF SLOWLY,
NO END WAS IN SIGHT.
"BUT WE CAN GET THROUGH IT",
HE CHEERED WITH DELIGHT.
THAT'S GOOD, BUT YOU
SEE HERE,
IT'S BETTER LIKE THIS.
HE WOULD HELP AND ASSIST THEM, AND NOT ONE WOULD HE MISS.
HOW DO YOU DO THIS?
IS ALL HE WOULD HEAR.
HE DIDN'T KNOW EITHER,
BUT HE WOULD MAKE IT SEEM CLEAR . . .
THEY STRUGGLED
TOGETHER
THROUGH THICKNESS AND

THIN.
AND THEY COULDN'T HAVE DONE IT WITHOUT "MOTHER BASKIN".
THE BOOK IS COMPLETED,
YOU'RE READING IT NOW.
HE THANKS THE GREAT PEOPLE, THAT HAVE SWEAT ON THEIR BROW.
THEY'RE FUN AND THEY'RE FRIENDLY, AND THEY ALL MAKE HIM
LAUGH.
HE THANKS THESE GREAT PEOPLE, THAT MAKE UP THE
